Greeting, 1893.

THE YEAR 1892 has been to us a prosperous one beyond the expectations we ventured to entertain at its commencement, though the steady growth of previous years warranted us in expecting much.

By studying carefully the interests of the classes we desire to serve; by pursuing a consistent and liberal policy; by prompt endeavors to satisfy customers; by strict attention to business, — we have, during the past year, increased the volume of our transactions nearly fifty per cent over what it reached in 1891.

In our special announcement, issued January, 1892, we named several books then in press or in course of preparation. With two exceptions those have all been completed, and more than as many more have been added. The additions to our list in 1892 include: —

Six Centuries of English Poetry, Elements of Psychology, The Laws of Thought (Formal Logic), Studies in Ethics and Religion, The Revisers' Greek Text (2 vols.), The Galilean, The Holy Ordinance of Marriage, A Missionary Sketch, The Synthetic Method for the Piano-forte (Part I.), Homonyms, Studies in Sustained Notes, The Cecilian Series of Study and Song (Books I., II., and III.), Beacon Series (12 Numbers), Sunshine Melodies, Our Best Endeavor, The Elements of Language and Grammar, Studies in English Grammar, Elements of Algebra, An Advanced Arithmetic, A Text-Book of Inorganic Chemistry, The Speaker, Modern Europe, Second Reader, Third Reader, Primary Reading Charts, A Primer of Health, The Essentials of Health, Select Mediæval Documents, and four volumes of special State Editions of Mowry's Elements of Civil Government. We have also added, by purchase, Sprague's Hamlet and the School Hymnary.

All this has been done and other publications undertaken without withdrawing from those already on our list anything of effort or attention needed to keep them before the public and up with the times — a year's work in which we take just pride.

The largely increased growth of our Western business has made it necessary during the past year to remove our Chicago office from 122 and 124 Wabash Avenue to 262 and 264 Wabash Avenue, where we have commodious and elegant quarters, occupying an entire floor. Patrons and friends visiting Chicago, Boston, New York, or Philadelphia, are most cordially invited to call upon us, and to make our office their headquarters.

We gratefully acknowledge the friendly encouragement and support accorded in the past by a generous public, and respectfully solicit their continuance. Without them we could not have succeeded. With them we cannot fail.

ARITHMETIC.

Arithmetic Charts.

By LARKIN DUNTON, LL.D.,
Head Master of Boston
Normal School. Price, complete with supporter, $8.00.

THESE charts are twelve in number, size 29x39
inches, beautifully printed on strong manila paper, and securely bound. They present the "fundamental operations" in Arithmetic in a clear and practicable manner.

Methods

of Teaching Arithmetic in Primary Schools.

By the same author. Introductory price, $1.00. —
Mailing price, $1.00.

THIS book of Methods is designed as a teacher's handbook, and will prove helpful to any teacher of primary classes. The methods described are applicable whatever be the apparatus in use.

Larkin Dunton.

The Normal Course in Number.

By JOHN W. COOK, President of Illinois State Normal University, and Miss N. CROPSEY, Assistant Superintendent of City Schools, Indianapolis, Ind.

John W. Cook

ple calculations in interest. The boy who must leave school early will get from this book a fair knowledge of arithmetical operations.

An Advanced Arithmetic.

Adapted to the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades (last years in grammar schools), to the ungraded schools, and to private classes. Introductory price, 72 cents. — Mailing price, 80 cents.

ITS definitions, statements of principles, analyses, and rules are given in clear and exact language, — the whole so arranged and stated that the subject-matter is presented as an organized whole. The examples are such as the boy will meet in business life; the provisions for drill are abundant; and the character of the work is so strong that the pupil who masters the book may feel sure of his arithmetical knowledge. It is an arithmetic with which to study the science of number.

"The Advanced Book of 'The Normal Course in Number,' by Pres. John W. Cook, comes the nearest to fully meeting the needs of thoughtful students, of any work with which we are acquainted. It is free from overwrought refinements in arithmetical analysis, and clear in discussion of all essential principles." — G. S. Albee, President of State Normal School, Oshkosh, Wis.

"The demonstrations are simple, concise, and accurate; the processes are those of the business man; and the examples are practical and well chosen. Non-essential and unpractical details are omitted." — Percy I. Bugbee, Professor of Mathematics, State Normal School, Oneonta, N. Y.

An Elementary Arithmetic.

Adapted to the third, fourth, and fifth grades (third, fourth, and fifth years) of school work. Introductory price, cents. — Mailing price, cents.

THE purpose of the work is to establish a ready knowledge of the principles upon which the operations are based, through the medium of application and use. After reviewing primary work, it begins with twenty, and by means of an abundance of systematically arranged and carefully graded examples, largely concrete, it carries the pupil forward through the "fundamental" operations, fractions, compound denominate numbers, and decimals, to sim-

Outlines for the Study of Art.

By Miss JOSEPHINE L. ABBOTT, Principal of Private School for Young Ladies, Providence, R.I. 286 pp. $5\frac{1}{2}$ by $7\frac{1}{2}$ inches. Introduction price, \$1.50. — Mailing price, \$1.67.

A NEW departure in our line of text-books. As the title indicates, the work is merely a foundation for study, but many valuable references to reliable works on art are given. The three great divisions of the fine arts, Architecture, Sculpture, and Painting, constitute the divisions of the book, and each subject is treated chronologically. A unique feature of the work, adding greatly to its value, is the leaving of each right-hand page blank, thus giving opportunity to the student to make notes or drawings related to the subject of the text. A table of books of reference, and one of terms used in architecture, are valuable features. The book is calculated to arouse in the student a desire for individual research. It is illustrated by three full-page engravings of famous works of art, is beautifully bound, and would be an ornament to any library.

"The book is a guide much more than a treatise, but the brief treatment of the topics is generally judicious and valuable. It is beautifully printed upon fine tinted paper. If the book is used as intended, it will soon become a delightful album of art photography, as well as a useful guide to the elementary study of art." — New York Journal of Education.

ASTRONOMY.

The Constellations and how to find them.

An elegant and complete Astronomical Atlas. By WILLIAM PECK, F.R.A.S. Fully illustrated. Introductory price, $1.25. — Mailing price, $1.25.

CONTAINS 13 full-page maps, showing the positions of the constellations in the sky during each month of any year; also two full-page plates, showing the constellations surrounding the North Pole and South Pole respectively, and numerous special cuts, diagrams, and explanatory tables, together with full and complete descriptions, explanations, etc. Especially adapted to the use of School and College Classes, Teachers of Astronomy, and all others interested in astronomical study.

"Armed with this, the celestial geography becomes robbed of its difficulties, and both young and old will gain pleasure and knowledge in the study of the nightly heavens. Every one who shall purchase this valuable book will be grateful to a firm which, for so small a sum, has given so popular and simple, yet full and satisfactory, a guide to the starry skies." — The Church Press.

BOOK-KEEPING.

Standard Book-Keeping.

By IRA MAYHEW, LL.D., former Superintendent of Public Instruction for the State of Michigan; President of Mayhew Business College, Detroit, Michigan. Introductory price, $1.80. — Mailing price, $2.00.

THE elements of the science are first unfolded in sequential order. The successive steps taken are easy and progressive. Both single and double entry forms are illustrated, and the manner of changing from one to the other is carefully shown. Business orders, negotiable and non-negotiable paper, banking, and exchange, are all clearly and concisely set out and explained. An especially valuable feature of the work is its chapter on Business Law and Business Morals. The book is especially well adapted to use in high schools, academies, commercial colleges, and private classes.

"As a book of reference for the accountant and business man, I consider it invaluable." — W. H. Sadler, President of Sadler's Bryant & Stratton Business College, Baltimore, Md.

"I have carefully looked over your work on Book-keeping (the 'Standard'), and I am satisfied that it is the most practical work published." — A. L. Faber, Superintendent of Schools, Leavenworth, Kan.

"The 'Book-keeping' is one of the very best works ever issued on book-keeping. It is the work of a master, and embodies everything that is essential on the subject." — J. M. Greenwood, Superintendent of Public Schools, Kansas City, Mo.

"I am very much interested in Dr. Mayhew's valuable work on Book-keeping, and unhesitatingly pronounce it the best book of the kind I have ever seen." — C. H. Magoon, Jr., Head Book-keeper for Messrs. Jas. H. Walker Co., Chicago, Ill.

Key to Standard Book-Keeping.

By IRA MAYHEW, LL.D. Introductory price, $1.80. — Mailing price, $2.00.

THIS book, as its name imports, shows the author's answers to the questions involved in the work set forth in "Standard Book-keeping." It will aid teachers and pupils alike.

Blanks for Standard Book-Keeping.

By IRA MAYHEW, LL.D. Introductory price, per set, $1.80. — Mailing price, $2.00.

THESE are properly a set of Account Books, which have been prepared of good paper with proper rulings, and of sufficient capacity for writing up the examples for practice given in "Standard Book-keeping." Careful instructions are given as to their use.

University Book-Keeping.

By IRA MAYHEW, LL.D. Introductory price, $1.80. — Mailing price, $2.00.

THIS is an elaborate and comprehensive work prepared for use in commercial colleges and in commercial departments of colleges and seminaries. It contains solutions of many difficult problems in commercial calculations.

Key to University Book-Keeping.

By IRA MAYHEW, LL.D. Introductory price, $1.80. — Mailing price, $2.00.

Reference Book of Business Knowledge.

By IRA MAYHEW, LL.D. Introductory price, $3.50. — Mailing price, $3.50.

"IT is the best work that has come under my notice. It is so clear in its explanations that no one can fail to get a thorough knowledge, not only of the theory and practice of book-keeping, but must become familiar with the most important facts, forms, laws, and usages of commercial life. In fact, there would seem to be few questions arising in the office or counting-room which this admirable work does not answer clearly and intelligently." — Henry J. Shaw, Head Book-keeper for Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., Chicago (the largest hardware house in the world).

BOTANY.

Plant Description and Analysis Blank.

By J. H. PILLSBURY, A.M., Professor of Biology in Smith College. Introductory price per block (25 sheets), 25 cents. — Mailing price, 28 cents. Sample sheet for one two-cent stamp.

THESE Blanks are put up in blocks instead of book form, that they may be examined separately. The sheets are perforated so that they may be bound together if desired, affording at once the most convenient and economical means yet provided of recording botanical observations and of becoming familiar with botanical terms.

"I like them much and shall continue to use them until I find something better, which I presume will not be soon." — Miss Abbie E. Leonard, Teacher of Botany, State Normal School, Castleton, Vt.

Synopsis of Botanical Terms.

By J. H. PILLSBURY, A.M. 4 pp. 8vo. Price, 5 cents each; $3.00 per hundred.

THIS Synopsis is designed as an aid in learning the terms used in descriptive botany. It gives the complete nomenclature of the subject in a compact and convenient form and at slight expense, and is especially serviceable when used in connection with the Plant Description and Analysis Blank described above.

CHEMISTRY.

The Young Chemist.

By JOHN HOWARD APPLETON, A.M., Professor of Chemistry in Brown University. Introductory price, 75 cents. — Mailing price, 83 cents.

THE method employed in this book is the experimental or object method.

The book has been used with great success since its publication, in many of the leading schools and colleges throughout the country.

Qualitative*Analysis.*

By JOHN HOWARD APPLETON, A.M. Introductory price, 75 cents. — Mailing price, 83 cts.

A SHORT but instructive course in this fascinating branch of Chemistry; notable for its brevity and compactness, its direct and clear analysis, and the large number of formulas and equations.

"I think the works that I have used, Appleton's 'Young Chemist' and Appleton's 'Qualitative Analysis,' are very excellent guides to students in their laboratory work." — Prof. H. C. Coon, M.D., Alfred University, Alfred Centre, N.Y.

Quantitative Analysis.

By JOHN HOWARD APPLETON, A.M. Introductory price, $1.25. — Mailing price, $1.40.

IN this little book the author endeavors to provide a laboratory guide suitable for the use of beginners in Quantitative Analysis. An alphabetical table of atomic weights is given, containing the results of recent revisions of these important numbers.

"I have carefully examined Appleton's 'Quantitative Analysis,' and consider it one of the best little works I have ever seen on the subject. I admire particularly the clear and explicit way of stating the reasons for the adoption of processes of analysis and the use of the various reagents." — Prof. P. DeRicketts, E.M., Ph.D., Columbia College School of Mines, New York City.

John Howard Appleton

Chemical Philosophy.

By JOHN HOWARD APPLETON, A.M. Introductory price, $1.40. — Mailing price, $1.60.

A FORMAL presentation of certain subjects which the author has been in the habit of offering to his classes in the form of lectures, explaining to beginners, or even tolerably advanced students in chemistry, certain of the general laws of the science.

"Professor Appleton's 'Lessons in Chemical Philosophy' should be in the hands of every student while receiving instruction in experimental chemistry. The work is well illustrated and is written in an entertaining manner." — Prof. Thos. C. Van Nieuys, Indiana State University, Bloomington, Ind.

Report Book of Experiments in General Chemistry.

By JOHN HOWARD APPLETON, A.M. Introductory price, 25 cents. — Mailing price, 28 cents.

THIS is a very convenient and reasonably inexpensive blank for the use of students. Teachers will also find it helpful in examining the work assigned.

Elements of Chemistry.

By S. P. MEADS, Professor of Chemistry in Oakland High School, Oakland, California. Introductory price, 80 cents. — Mailing price, 90 cents.

THE popularity of this work has made it necessary recently to print a fifth edition. At the suggestion of many teachers who have used the book with much satisfaction since its first appearance, the name has been changed from "Chemical Primer" to "Elements of Chemistry." The book has also been thoroughly revised. Several pages have been added to the Appendix, thus enlarging the scope of the book somewhat, and increasing its efficiency.

The book was prepared for use especially in those schools that can give to Chemistry only one term's work. It grew out of the needs of the class-room as felt by the author. The directions for experiments are plain, and the apparatus required is of the simplest and least expensive kind.

"It impresses me as an excellent little work, well arranged, condensed, clear." — Frank T. Wilson, Superintendent of Schools, Stillwater, Minn.

"I have examined your book, and consider it an excellent one, well adapted to high-school classes." — J. H. Collins, Superintendent of Public Schools, Springfield, Ill.

"The book ought to be in general use. I think I can point out certain special merits that are peculiar to this book, and cannot be found in other works." — Albert Jennings, Superintendent of Schools, Manistee, Mich.

"Meads' 'Elements of Chemistry' is a most admirable work, and well adapted to use in any institution in which the time devoted to the work must be brief." — Clarence M. Boutelle, Principal of Schools, Decorah, Iowa.

"My first good impression of the book has been more than realized. We are more than satisfied with it,—we are delighted. The study seems to the pupils neither a series of dry, soulless text-book statements, nor a succession of juggling tricks. I believe their knowledge of Chemistry is a truly scientific knowledge." — S. W. Dixon, Superintendent of "Union" Schools, Lacon, Ill.

A Practical Course in Qualitative Analysis.

For Use in High Schools, Academies, and Colleges.

By J. W. SIMMONS, Superintendent of City Schools, Dowagiac, Mich. Introductory price, 50 cents. — Mailing price, 56 cents.

A WORK designed to supplement the ordinary text-books on Chemistry. Its plan is simple and practical, requiring but a small outlay for apparatus, yet it is adapted to use with the most elaborate outfit.

"The book is well arranged, and will prove serviceable to pupils in many high schools where an increasing interest in the science of chemistry is being rapidly developed." — John W. Langley, Professor of Chemistry, University of Michigan.

"I have looked through it carefully. It is clear, concise, and accurate; and I should regard it as an excellent manual for students in our high schools who take up elementary laboratory work." — T. H. Norton, Professor of Chemistry, University of Cincinnati, Ohio.

"A decided step in the right direction. I am particularly glad to see a work which so simply yet fully directs the student how he may work for and by himself, and one which gives so many useful tables and notes. I regard the fact that the book throws the student so much on his own resources as a great merit, — it is a guide, not an arbitrary master. I wish the book its deserved success." — Charles A. Davis, Professor of Natural Science, Alma College, Mich.

A Text-Book of Inorganic Chemistry.

PART I. Non-Metallic Elements.

Descriptive, Theoretical, and Practical. A Manual for Advanced Students. By ALFRED A. BENNETT, Professor of Chemistry in the Iowa College of Science, Agriculture, and the Mechanic Arts. Introductory price, — Mailing price,

THE work is arranged in the easy and familiar form of class-room talks, and is an excellent text for students who desire to study facts and draw conclusions. Experiments are suggested from which formulas are to be deduced, rather than formulas dictated to be verified. Teachers will find here matter for a complete lecture course.

PART II. Metallic Elements. (In press.)

Experiment Blanks for a Short Course in Chemistry.

By N. S. FRENCH, A.M., Sub-Master in the Roxbury Latin School, Boston. Introductory price, 35 cents. — Mailing price, 40 cents.

ARRANGED in book form, for systematic record of observations and conclusions in experiments before a class not having access to a laboratory. Teachers need them to lighten labor, and pupils to systematize their knowledge.

Systematic Experiment Blanks.

By N. S. FRENCH, A.M. Introductory price, 25 cents. — Mailing price, 28 cents.

CONVENIENT as a note book for students. Arranged to systematize experiments in Natural Philosophy or Chemistry, the observations and conclusions being drawn by the pupils, and recorded for the teacher's inspection.

CIVICS.

Studies in Civil Government.

By WILLIAM A. MOWRY, PH.D., Editor of Education, Boston; member of the Boston School Committee; for twenty years Senior Principal of the well-known English and Classical School, Providence, R.I. Introductory price, 96 cents. — Mailing price, $1.05.

William A. Mowry

A CHOICE new text-book in civil government. The remarkable favor with which this book has been received proves that it fully meets the present demand for a text-book on this important subject, treating, in a way suited to the use of the schools, of the duties, privileges, and problems growing out of American citizenship. The edition of 1891 has been carefully corrected and brought up to date. It embodies the modifications made necessary by the creation of the new Department of Agriculture in the General Government, and the admission of new states.

The book was not made to order, but grew out of the personal experience of the author, who for twenty-five consecutive years sent out annually a class of boys from an English high school course of study. Adopted for use in a large number of the leading high schools, academies, and other institutions of similar grade.

"The spirit of the book is to teach government as it is." — The Nation.

"The great virtue of the book is its practical character." — The Congregationalist.

"The teacher and class are enjoying them greatly." — Rev. R. G. McClelland, Principal Grand River Institute, Austinburg, Ohio.

"Mowry's 'Studies in Civil Government' is the best book yet on the subject." — A. S. Roe, formerly Principal High School, Worcester, Mass.

"We are using with complete satisfaction Dr. Mowry's 'Studies in Civil Government.' This book is a scholarly, judicious, and practical treatment of a most important subject, and is one of the best working books upon our list. We are gratified that we made so good a selection." — S. W. Landon, Principal High School, Burlington, Vt.

Elements of Civil Government.

By WILLIAM A. MOWRY, PH.D. Introductory price, 72 cents. — Mailing price, 80 cents.

THIS book furnishes a shorter course than the Studies in Civil Government. It can be used in schools where younger pupils can spend from three to six months in the study of an elementary book, but would find the larger and more mature treatise too extensive or too difficult. It is clear and exact in statement, logical in arrangement, and sufficiently comprehensive in scope to furnish the youth who read it a practical and definite knowledge of the elementary principles of government, both state and national. Adopted for use in the public schools of Boston, and in other leading cities.

"I have recommended the adoption of Mowry's Civil Government as a text-book in Civics for the first class in our grammar schools." — C. A. Daniels, Superintendent of Schools, Malden, Mass.

"I shall be pleased to place it in the hands of our Committee on Course of Study, with the recommendation that it be placed in use in the public schools." — W. F. Slaton, Superintendent of Schools, Atlanta, Ga.

Special State Editions of the Elements of Civil Government.

By W. A. MOWRY, Ph.D. Complete. Introductory price, 90 cents. — Mailing price, $1.00.

THE separate matter for each State has been prepared by men especially qualified to set before the schools what it is needful their youths should know, and so state it that it may be readily comprehended. They are now, and have been for years, actively engaged in school work, and are therefore in touch with the activities of to-day.

The special matter for each State is also bound separately, as follows: —

Massachusetts Civil Government. By W. A. MOWRY, Ph.D. Introductory price, 42 cents. — Mailing price, 47 cents.

Civil Government of New York. By EMERSON W. KEYES, formerly Superintendent of Public Instruction, State of New York. Introductory price, 48 cents. — Mailing price, 54 cents.

Civil Government of Illinois. By HERBERT J. BARTON, Professor of History, Illinois University. Introductory price, 48 cents. — Mailing price, 54 cents.

Civil Government of Michigan. By A. McLAUGHLIN, Professor of History and Civics, University of Michigan. Introductory price, 42 cents. — Mailing price, 47 cents.

Civil Government of Minnesota. By HON. T. H. KIRK, Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction. Introductory price, 42 cents. — Mailing price, 47 cents.

Civil Government of Pennsylvania. By GEORGE M. PHILLIPS, Ph.D., President of State Normal School, West Chester, Pa. (In preparation.)

Civil Government of Wisconsin. By L. D. HARVEY, President of State Normal School, Milwaukee, Wis. (In preparation.)

Civil Government of Indiana. By W. W. GRANT, A.M., formerly Principal of High School, Indianapolis, Ind. (In preparation.)

"Elements of 'Civil Government of Minnesota' has been prepared with care by one who is practically familiar with the State, especially in all that pertains to its school system. I am glad to commend it as complete and accurate, and as the only book of which I have knowledge that furnishes us the outline and the essential facts of our state system of Government." — D. L. Kiehle, Superintendent of Public Instruction, St. Paul, Minn.

ECONOMICS.

Institutes of Economics.

By E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS, D.D., LL.D., President of Brown University, late Professor of Economics and Finance in Cornell University, formerly Professor of History and Political Economy in Brown University. 228 pp. Introductory price, $1.30. — Mailing price, $1.40.

THIS is a succinct manual of Political Economy for the class-room, on a plan thoroughly its own. Its pre-eminent aim is to be a first-rate teaching-book. Its chief excellences in point of method are : 1. The utmost brevity which can be made to consist with clearness, indispensable amplifications and illustrations beyond this being referred to notes. 2. Thorough and conspicuous analysis, general and special, greatly aiding pupils both to master and retain the thought. 3. Encouragement to side reading, each paragraph being introduced by references to the best accessible authority upon its theme. On all subjects of special importance the ablest convenient discussions are listed in notes. While the materials of the volume and the handling of them are primarily adapted to undergraduates in universities and colleges, its copious references to the best authorities, English and foreign, will give it great value for advanced students, and, on the other hand, its clearness and simplicity qualify it, through perhaps the omission of a few peculiarly severe sections, for successful use in high schools and academies.

"It is a book of power and movement, apart from its professional value and its admirable arrangement." — Boston Evening Transcript.

ENGLISH GRAMMAR, COMPOSITION, AND RHETORIC.

The Normal Course in English.

Based upon the popular works of Prof. ALFRED H. WELSH. Comprising three volumes:

Preparatory Lessons in Language.

By MARY I. LOVEJOY, Principal of Broadway School, Chelsea, Mass. (In press.)

THIS book is intended for primary grades as an aid in acquiring a knowledge of correct forms of ordinary expression, through repeated use of such forms. Its carefully graded lessons will fully prepare the pupil for the study of elementary principles presented in the next book, or any other book giving the elements of language and grammar.

The Elements of Language and Grammar.

Based upon First Lessons in English. Edited and arranged, much of it rewritten, by J. M. GREENWOOD, A.M., Superintendent of Schools, Kansas City, Mo. Introductory price, 54 cents. — Mailing price, 60 cents.

J. M. Greenwood,

THIS volume is intended for intermediate grades of grammar schools, and for the ungraded schools. Special care has been exercised to make it so practical in its statements of fundamental principles and in its exercises, at the same time so comprehensive that it shall fully answer the demands for one book for pupils who can spend but a comparatively short time in the study of grammar and composition. The child who masters the principles stated in this book can acquit himself with credit in the ordinary walks of life.

"It is certainly the book of books for use in the public schools. In the selection of material, Superintendent Greenwood has avoided such as is beyond the comprehension of children; and in arrangement the book is a model." — J. M. Shelton, Prin. Franklin School, Kansas City, Mo.

 "In a book of two hundred and twenty pages, each of which is packed like a nut with meat, one can give no illustrations that will do justice to the authors, who have done precisely what they aimed to do. They have made a live book for live teachers in live schools." — New England Journal of Education, Boston, Mass.

Studies in English Grammar.

Based on Lessons in English. Edited and arranged by J. M. GREENWOOD, A.M., Superintendent of Schools, Kansas City, Mo. Introductory price, 66 cents. — Mailing price, 74 cents.

IT is the purpose of this third book of the series to so state, discuss, and illustrate the principles of English grammar, that the book shall be adapted to the needs of all advanced grammar grades, and be especially serviceable for reviews in high schools. It thus forms a proper connecting link between the study of grammatical forms and principles and higher forms of composition and rhetoric.

"The work is quite up to date; presents the subject clearly, fully, and concisely; tells the pupil many interesting things by the way, and affords ample material for drill if the teacher is competent. We predict success for the book." — Public Opinion, Washington, D.C.

First Lessons in English.

By Prof. A. H. WELSH, A.M., Ohio State University. Introductory price, 48 cents. — Mailing price, 54 cents.

THIS book was prepared for beginners in language study. The child is made to perceive before he is asked to remember, and to reason before he is required to generalize.

"I like the 'First Lessons in English' very much — in fact, I think there is no book I should prefer to it for use as an introduction to grammar, and as first lessons in the art of speaking and writing the English language correctly." — W. E. Anderson, Superintendent of City Schools, Milwaukee, Wis.

Lessons in English Grammar.

By A. H. WELSH, A.M. Introductory price, 60 cents. — Mailing price, 67 cents.

THE design of the book is a thoroughly practical one, aiming to present simply and logically the topics that relate directly to the facts of the language and to the laws of structure.

"We have used Welsh's 'Lessons in English Grammar' for the past year in our preparatory department, and find it entirely satisfactory." — Josephine C. Robertson, Instructor in Literature and Rhetoric, Shepardson College, Granville, Ohio.

A Compendium of English Grammar.

By J. N. ENO, A.M. Flexible cloth binding. Introductory price, 30 cents. — Mailing price, 35 cents.

THIS is a brief text-book that aims to present the primary essentials of English Grammar in such form that they may be easily learned and applied by the pupil. While the book is designed for the use of pupils, the wise teacher will not fail to gather from it many valuable hints, especially concerning language development, from the daily recitations in other branches.

English Composition.

By A. H. WELSH, A.M. Introductory price, 60 cents. — Mailing Price, 67 cents.

THIS book presents in an interesting form a graded course in composition — a course that will lead to a mastery of good English, and the power of expressing a train of thought in appropriate language. Especially adapted to high schools, academies, and all schools of similar grade.

"Welsh's 'English Composition' is a very attractive book, practical in method, abounding in illustration, and clear in statement." — F. W. Tilton, Headmaster of Rogers High School, Newport, R.I.

Complete Rhetoric.

By A. H. WELSH, A. M. Introductory price, $1.12. — Mailing price, $1.25.

THIS book presents Rhetoric as the art of employing words in the most efficient way to instruct, to please, to convince, or to persuade. It is an admirable book for high schools, academies, seminaries, and even colleges desiring an easy, well-arranged text-book in Rhetoric.

✍ Professor Welsh's text-books have already attained a wide popularity and use. The "First Lessons in English," "Lessons in English Grammar," "English Composition," and "Complete Rhetoric," were recently adopted for exclusive use in the State of Washington.

Essentials of English.

By A. H. WELSH, A.M. Introductory price, 90 cents. — Mailing price, $1.00.

THIS is not an exhaustive treatise for the few, but a manual of essentials for the many, presenting in compact and orderly system the cardinal facts of the English language and the cardinal qualities of English style.

"I have decided that 'Essentials of English' by Professor Welsh is the book needed in my school, and shall earnestly recommend its adoption." — R. W. Whitcomb, Principal of High School, Farmington, Me.

English Masterpiece Course.

By A. H. WELSH, A.M. Introductory price, 75 cents. — Mailing price, 83 cents.

A CHARMING selection of masterpieces in English, so arranged and treated that they may be studied with delight.

"I am delighted with 'English Masterpiece Course.'" — Clara E. Stevens, Teacher of English, Mount Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass.

"I have examined the book carefully, and am much pleased with it; so much so that I have put it into my classes." — M. W. Bartlett, Teacher of English and Literature, Iowa State Normal School, Cedar Falls, Iowa.

"I have had time to examine 'English Masterpiece Course,' and have found it one of Professor Welsh's best works." — C. W. Minard, A.M., Superintendent of Schools, and Secretary of the Board, Maywood, Ill.

ENGLISH LITERATURE.

New Method for the Study of English Literature.

By MISS LOUISE MÆRTZ, Quincy, Ill. Introductory price, 75 cents. — Mailing price, 83 cents.

A VALUABLE text-book for class use in high schools, academies, and seminaries. It is also well adapted to literary clubs, especially ladies' clubs.

"I feel that I express the sentiment of every member of the class in saying that nothing has given such satisfaction or benefit as your 'Method for the Study of English Literature.'" — Mrs. Annie E. Smith, Secretary Woman's Club and Library Association, Cairo, Ill.

Key to Same.

For teachers. Mailing price, 50 cents.

ELOCUTION AND ORATORY.

The Orator's Manual.

A practical and philosophical treatise on Vocal Culture, Emphasis, and Gesture, together with Selections for Declamation and Reading. By GEORGE L. RAYMOND, L.H.D., Professor of Oratory and Æsthetic Criticism in the College of New Jersey at Princeton. Introductory price, $1.12. — Mailing price, $1.25.

THE book presents in concise and comprehensive form the results of the author's experience in teaching. It gives the best that has been published or taught on the subject of which it treats, each department of the art being so described that its methods shall be distinctly apprehended, so explained that the principles underlying their use shall be easily understood.

"Raymond's 'Orator's Manual' has been thoroughly tested in class and renders excellent satisfaction." — George L. Osborne, President of State Normal School, Warrensburg, Mo.

The Princeton Series of Expression.

By GEORGE L. RAYMOND, L.H.D., and M. M. MILLER, Litt.D., Princeton College, Princeton, N.J.

THESE volumes, three in number, are designed to unify oratory, rhetoric, and debate in college work.

The Speaker. Based on THE ORATOR'S MANUAL. (In press.)

The Writer. (In preparation.)

The Debater. (In preparation.)

A Manual of Gesture.

By ALBERT M. BACON, A.M., Professor of Elocution, Chicago, Ill. Introductory price, $1.12. — Mailing price, $1.25.

AS might be inferred from the name, A Manual of Gesture gives special attention to the subject of gesture. One hundred and three cuts are furnished, eighty-nine of which are full length. The author claims to have more fully developed and thoroughly systematized instruction in this department of oratory than has been attempted heretofore.

"I have long regarded Bacon's 'Manual of Gesture' as altogether the best of its kind, and am glad that new editions of it are called for." — Bliss Perry, Professor of Elocution in Williams College, Williamstown, Mass.

Dean's Science of Utterance.

By C. DEAN, assisted by HON. JOSEPH ESTABROOK, M.A., State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Michigan. Introductory price, 50 cents. — Mailing price, 55 cents.

THIS work is designed for supplementary instruction in the art of reading, the essential elements of which are voice, articulation, and expression. The cultivation of these elements cannot fail to secure habits of utterance healthful to the speaker and agreeable to the listener.

"It is just the book for my first-year elocution class, and I have decided to use it." — J. Calvin Rice, Principal of Glenwood Collegiate Institute, Matawan, N.J.

GERMAN.

Practical German Grammar.

By WESLEY C. SAWYER, PH.D. Introductory price, 75 cents. — Mailing price, 83 cents.

Complete German Manual.

By WESLEY C. SAWYER, PH.D. Introductory price, $1.00. — Mailing price, $1.12.

THE Complete Manual was prepared for high schools and colleges. The requirements of such schools, and the opinions of successful teachers, have guided the author in determining its contents, and adapting it to supply all the needs of the student previous to reading the complete texts of German authors. Exercises in letter writing are given to aid students in this the most difficult part of their work.

"There can be no doubt of the excellence of the book as a working manual, leading the pupil into the very language, and not simply acquainting him with the grammatical forms of German speech." — C. P. Bancroft, Ph.D., Principal of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass.

German without Grammar or Dictionary.

PART I. By F. G. ZUR BRÜKE, formerly Director of Chicago School of Modern Languages. Introductory price, 60 cents. — Mailing price, 67 cents.

THIS book is a guide to learning and teaching the German language according to the Pestalozzian method of teaching by object lessons.

German without Grammar or Dictionary.

PART II. By F. G. ZUR BRÜKE. Introductory price, $1.00. — Mailing price, $1.12.

THE sound of every German letter, both simple and compound, is indicated in tabulated form. The table on pronunciation is alone worth the price of the book.

"Dr. Zur Brücke's 'German without Grammar or Dictionary' is the best work I have seen for the natural method." — I. W. Mitchell, Superintendent of City Schools, Fond du Lac, Wis.

GREEK.

An Aid to Greek at Sight.

By E. C. FERGUSON, PH.D., Professor of Greek in U. S. Grant University, Chattanooga, Tenn.; formerly professor in McKendree College, Lebanon, Ill. Introductory price, $1.50. — Mailing price, $1.65.

THIS work contains the cream of the Lexicon, although it is by no means designed to take its place. The purpose of the book is to aid students in acquiring a vocabulary as speedily as possible, by showing them what words and what meanings are most important. The chief reason why students cannot read a page of ordinary Greek at sight, is not mysterious but a very simple one — they do not know the meaning of the words.

An Aid to Greek at Sight — abridged.

By E. C. FERGUSON, Ph.D., Professor of Greek in U. S. Grant University. Introductory price, 30 cts. — Mailing price, 35 cts.

A BRIEF work of 44 pages, giving fundamental words.

Three Thousand Classic Greek Words.

By JOHN A. SANFORD, Teacher of Greek in Minneapolis High School. Introductory price, — Mailing price,

A HANDY volume, especially well suited to the work of mastering a working vocabulary of Greek words.

HIGHER MATHEMATICS.

Plane and Spherical Trigonometry.

By A. H. WELSH, A.M., Ohio State University. Introductory price, $1.00. — Mailing price, $1.12.

AN excellent text-book, not too elementary, nor yet too voluminous. It embodies the latest developments of the science and the most approved methods of instruction.

Elements of the Differential and Integral Calculus.

By a new method, founded on the true system of Sir Isaac Newton, without the use of Infinitesimals or Limits. By C. P. BUCKINGHAM, author of The Principles of Arithmetic; formerly Assistant Professor of Natural Philosophy in the United States Military Academy; Professor of Mathematics and Natural Philosophy in Kenyon College, Ohio. Introductory price, $1.50. — Mailing price, $1.65.

REJECTING the method of infinitesimals as false and the method of limits because unsatisfactory, the author has constructed rigorous mathematical demonstrations, free from all metaphysical reasoning, — a method right in principle and thoroughly educational in practice.

Elements of Algebra.

By GEORGE LILLEY, A.M., Ph.D., President of State Agricultural College and School of Science, Pullman, Washington. Introductory price, $1.12. — Mailing price, $1.25.

THE demand for a practical Algebra that shall be well suited to one year's work in high schools and academies — less theory and more practice — has induced the publishers to undertake this new work. Its definitions, statements of principles, and its methods, are all carefully deduced from simple examples and processes. Its arrangement — treating Involution in connection with Multiplication, Evolution in connection with Division, Logarithms in connection with Exponents — is logical and progressive. Teachers will appreciate the treatment and explanation of the sign of direction, as distinguished from the sign of operation.

A few only of the excellent features of this work are here stated.

"In general I am much pleased with it; and some of its points, wherein it differs radically from other texts, I pronounce a very decided improvement." — Geo. C. Churchill, President Knox Academy, Galesburg, Ill.

"As an elementary work I think it is admirable. In simplicity, logicalness, and practicability I do not know a better." — Wm. M. Jefferies, D.D., Philadelphia, Pa., formerly Professor of Mathematics in Maryland Agricultural College.

HISTORY.

Historical Geography of the United States.

By TOWNSEND MAC COUN, A.M. 12mo, cloth. 43 colored maps, with text. Introductory price, 90 cents. — Mailing price, $1.00.

THIS book is for teachers and students of all grades, from the grammar school to the most advanced student of political history. These maps portray our country as it appeared after each of the changes it has gone through from its discovery until to-day. The text points out the historical causes which have led to the changes portrayed. The aim of this volume is not to supplant, but to supplement the books now in use, and to aid in developing a strong spirit of Americanism. It is entirely free from any political or sectarian bias.

Townsend Mac Coun

"Hereafter every student of American history in my department will be required to own a copy." — James H. Canfield, Professor of History, University of Kansas.

The Old Northwest:

With a View of the Thirteen Colonies as constituted by the Royal Charters.

By B. A. HINSDALE, PH.D., Professor of the Science and Art of Teaching, University of Michigan. 1 vol. 8vo, cloth. Mailing price, $2.50.

THE Old Northwest is the region bounded by the Great Lakes and the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. It is the part of the Great West first discovered and colonized by the French. It was the occasion of the final struggle for dominion between France and England in North America. It was the theatre of one of the most brilliant and far-reaching military exploits of the Revolution. The disposition to be made of it at the close of the Revolution is the most important territorial question of our history. It is the original public domain, and the part of the West first colonized under the authority of the National Government. It was the first and most important territory ever organized by Congress. It is the only part of the United States ever under a secondary constitution like the ordinance of 1787. No other equal part of the Union has made in one hundred years such progress along the characteristic lines of American development. It has stood in very important relations to questions of great national and international importance. To portray those features that make it an historical unit, is the central purpose of the work.

"One of the most valuable additions to American histories that has recently been made,"—New York Sun.

"Such geographical pictures are the best and surest way of teaching history." — A. H. Sayce, Professor of History, Oxford University, England.

"The book is simply incomparable." — Alfred S. Roe, late Principal Worcester High School.

THIS General History is intended for schools and colleges, as well as for the library and private study. The logical divisions are natural, geographical, effective. A thorough unity pervades the entire work. It is suggestive of the causes, results, and motives of events. Its great brevity brings it within the time of any class, and within easy reach of the general reader. It contains 130 more maps than any other history.

"Incomparably the best text-book in General History that has come to my attention."

Historical Atlas.

By ROBERT H. LABBERTON. 14th edition. Royal octavo. 165 colored maps. Flexible binding, round corners. Introductory price, $1.25. — Mailing price, $1.40.

THIS collection of maps, the most complete in English, covers all ancient, classical, mediæval, and modern European history. Each map has above it the date or period it covers; each map has every place needed for that period, and no other; nations have, and retain in successive maps, a distinctive color. Adapted to classical and historical study.

"It is as near perfect as I expect to see a good working atlas in my day." — James H. Canfield, University of Kansas, Ex-President National Educational Association.

Institutes of General History.

By E. BENJAMIN ANDREWS, D.D., LL.D., President of Brown University, late Professor in Cornell University, formerly Professor of History and Political Economy in Brown University. 12mo, cloth, 452 pp. Introductory price, $2.00. — Mailing price, $2.25.

FOR the use of college classes and general readers and students of history. This is confidently believed to be, for class-room use or as a reader's manual, by far the best general history extant. Even instructors who use their own lectures will find it greatly saving of their own time, and in equal degree helpful to the progress of their classes to place this volume in the hands of their pupils, as a syllabus and as a register of the best literature for side reading.

"The work is one of remarkable merit." — Dr. George P. Fisher (in Yale Review).

"I find it to be a work of great value." — Prof. James Monroe, Oberlin College, Ohio.

"It cannot fail to succeed, for it is just the book we have long been wanting for college instruction." — Prof. E. W. Hall, Colby University.

"I find the 'Institutes' most vital, stimulating, a throbbing pulse in every sentence." — Prof. Moses Coit Tyler, LL.D., Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y.

"It seems wonderfully packed with matter — like a little basket full of keys, each opening a box of knowledge." — James Parton.

Select Mediæval Documents.

By SHAILER MATHEWS, A.M., Professor of History in Colby University, Waterville, Me. Introductory price, $1.00. — Mailing price, $1.10.

STUDENTS of History will find this a most interesting work. It is a collection of decrees, concordats, etc., belonging to an age of great importance in the annals of history. The text is Latin, taken from the great Monumenta Germaniæ, and therefore of the highest authority.

"The selections seem to have been made with excellent judgment, and I shall take pleasure in submitting them to practical test with my next class." — Edward G. Bourne, Adelbert College, Cleveland, Ohio.

"I esteem the production of such collections as of the highest importance for the promotion of sound scholarship in this country." — Frank H. Foster, Professor of Church History, Oberlin Theological Seminary, Oberlin, Ohio.

LATIN.

A Drill Vocabulary for Virgil.

By ISAAC B. BURGESS, A.M., Instructor in Latin, Boston Latin School, late Latin Master in the Rogers High School, Newport, R.I. Flexible cloth binding. Introductory price, 30 cents. — Mailing price, 35 cents.

A CONVENIENT and valuable manual for the use of students and classes in Virgil, as an aid to systematic word-study.

"Constructed in deference to actual teaching necessities and students' actual needs." — Benjamin I. Wheeler, Professor in Cornell University.

"I welcome in classic literature whatever is so provocative of thought as is this little volume." — F. J. Miller, A.M., Instructor in Latin, Worcester (Mass.) Academy.

MENTAL PHILOSOPHY.

Elements of Psychology.

By NOAH K. DAVIS, M.A., Ph.D., LL.D., Professor of Moral Philosophy in the University of Virginia, author of "The Theory of Thought." Octavo. Introductory price, $1.80. — Mailing price, $2.00.

THIS treatise is intended primarily for use in academic classes, high schools, preparatory schools, and in colleges, where, by reason of limited time, an elementary work is desired. It is, therefore, elementary in character and scope, yet scholarly, complete, and thoroughly well balanced. It is a fresh and vigorous work that will have more than ordinary value as a class-book. The portion calling for study is given in the main text. It is logically developed, with exact definitions adhered to throughout. Into the marginal notes are gathered all sorts of items, the general intent being to enliven the terse and dry statements thus annotated, and furnish glimpses of the writings of others.

"Professor Davis gives scientific and clear definitions, and adheres to them rigidly. His discussion of Feeling is the best I have ever seen." — Collins Denny, Professor of Mental and Moral Philosophy, Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn.

"The plan, introducing the subject of mind study by a careful study of the physiological facts which form an introduction to Psychology, is unique and excellent." — J. Freeman Hall, Superintendent of Schools, Natick, Mass.

"I have just completed Professor Davis' 'Elements of Psychology' with my class. It is the best book for advanced work that I have seen." — Charles E. Taylor, President Wake Forest College, Wake Forest, N.C.

"The student will neither be repulsed by an excess of technical verbiage nor encouraged to think that he will encounter no difficulties in the study of Psychology. It is admirably adapted to use as a text-book in High Schools and Colleges." — G. B. Moore, Professor of Philosophy, Furman University, Greenville, S.C.

"It is clear, comprehensive, independent, and scholarly; rich from the stores of past thought, and fresh with discussions of living interest." — J. A. Quarles, D.D., LL.D., Washington and Lee University, Lexington, Va.

"I know of no work on this important branch of college instruction superior to it for a text between teacher and class." — W. R. Rothwell, A.M., D.D., Professor of Moral Philosophy and Theology, William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo.

"Any one acquainted with Dr. Davis would expect in a work from his pen clearness, force, delicate discrimination, and profound analysis. These qualities glisten on almost every page of his Psychology." — R. M. Dudley, President Georgetown College, Georgetown, Ky.

The System of Mental Philosophy.

By ASA MAHAN, D.D., LL.D., author of "The Science of Intellectual Philosophy," "The Science of Logic," "The Science of Natural Theology," etc. Introductory price, $1.00. — Mailing price, $1.12.

IT is fully believed by the author that every advanced student in our academies and high schools, as well as college students, can master this treatise, and that when he has done so, he will have attained to an understanding of the different faculties of the mind and of the varied functions of those faculties.

The laws of mind are those principles in conformity to which its diverse faculties act, or are controlled. The purpose of this book is to state those laws, and by them explain the phenomena of mind.

"Mahan's 'Mental Philosophy' is comprehensive, clear, and concise, — very important qualities, yet often wanting in books treating of philosophy." — J. C. Greenough, Principal of State Normal School, Westfield, Mass.

"Our experience was very flattering. I am well satisfied with the results of its use." — L. W. Taylor, Professor of Philosophy, Maine Central Institute (Pittsfield).

The Laws of Thought, or Formal Logic.

By WILLIAM POLAND, Professor of Rational Philosophy in St. Louis University, St. Louis, Mo. Introductory price, 72 cents. — Mailing price, 80 cents.

THE purpose of this book is to lay down briefly and clearly the process of right thinking. Adhering closely to this purpose, it enumerates the principal acts of the intellect, leaving psychology out of the discussion. It is what its name imports, a clean-cut Formal Logic.

The subject-matter is arranged in definite paragraphs, consecutively numbered and set out with full-face side titles, rendering the work especially easy of reference. In addition to the general text there is given an especially valuable "Outline of Sciences," with full explanation. The student of philosophy will be interested in this outline, it being an ocular demonstration of the increase of comprehension and the decrease of extension, a subject to which more than usual attention is given in this book.

"Such a book as 'The Laws of Thought' could be written only by a man of accurate thought and an experienced mind trainer. I was especially pleased with the author's success in avoiding the confusion which invariably results from excursions into cognate branches. The get-up of the book is admirably adapted for class use, and the student who shall have, under the direction of a master, followed it, will learn, not merely read, a treatise on Dialectics." — Edw. J. Gleeson, Professor of Philosophy, Marquette College, Milwaukee, Wis.

"An excellent little work on Logic, — clear, concise, elegantly written, and displaying judicious method and profound learning. It will doubtless become a favorite text-book, both in colleges and academies." — Marshall I. Boardman, Professor of Logic and Metaphysics, St. Louis University, St. Louis, Mo.

"A satisfactory text-book of Logic is such a rarity, that on opening your little volume, I was determined not to be pleased with it. The careful reading of a few chapters, however, considerably modified my preconceived opinion, and before I laid the work aside, prejudice had given way to admiration." — A. F. Cushing, Professor of Logic, Young Ladies' Academy, Maryville, South St. Louis, Mo.

"It is methodical in the division and treatment of the subject, clear in the explanation of terms, and as a text-book, or a work of reference, it will assist beginners to understand aright and to put in practice the Laws of Thought." — Edward L. Devitt, President of Boston College, Boston, Mass.

MORAL PHILOSOPHY.

*Principles and Practice of Morality;Or, Ethical Principles Discussed and Applied.*By EZEKIEL GILMAN ROBINSON, D.D., LL.D., late President of Brown University.
12mo, cloth, 264 pp. Introductory price, $1.50. — Mailing price, $1.60.

AS a treatise on this important subject President Robinson's Principles and Practice of Morality has attracted wide attention and has been received with remarkable favor by teachers and general readers of Ethical Science. It is a vigorous, scholarly book — such as might be expected from its eminent and learned author, whose ripe scholarship and rare power and clearness as teacher and thinker are revealed on every page. Already adopted as a text-book in more than fifty of the leading colleges of the country. Every teacher of the subject should examine this book before beginning the subject with another class.

"It is clear in style, comprehensive in its plan, instructive and interesting in its contents."
— Prof. George P. Fisher, Yale University, New Haven, Conn.

"I regard President Robinson's work on Ethics as an answer to a deeply felt want in that department of instruction. I have used it with great satisfaction. It is clear, closely reasoned, vigorous, stimulating. I heartily commend it for use in our colleges."
— President James M. Taylor, Vassar College.

"I feel that it is the work of a master, a very able discussion in ethics, a most excellent text-book. We have accepted the book." — Prof. Granville Yager, Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt.

Evidences of Christianity.

THE publishers take great pleasure in announcing the early publication of a concise and timely treatise on this subject, suited to the use of schools and colleges — now in preparation by Dr. Robinson.

NATURAL THEOLOGY.

Natural Theology; Or, Rational Theism.

By M. VALENTINE, D.D., LL.D., Ex-President of Pennsylvania College, and Professor of Theology in the Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, Pa. 12mo, 274 pp. Introductory price, $1.00. — Mailing price, $1.12.

THIS volume brings together the various approved evidences and views of the theistic question, as they now stand in the best accredited thought and knowledge of the present time. Its compact style and explicit language especially adapt it to use as a text-book in schools, colleges, and seminaries.

PEDAGOGICS.

Studies in Pedagogy.

By Gen. THOMAS J. MORGAN, United States Commissioner of Indian Affairs, late Principal Rhode Island State Normal School, Providence. 12mo, cloth. 355 pages. Retail price, $1.75.

Adopted by Illinois State Teachers' Reading Circle, 1892.

T. J. Morgan

THE book is a complete pedagogical library for the common school teacher, and will be a great addition to the library of any educator.

"The book is one from which every teacher, whatever his grade or department, might draw both help and inspiration." — Christian Inquirer.

Educational

Mosaics.

By Gen. THOMAS J. MORGAN, United States Commissioner of Indian Affairs, late Principal of the Rhode Island State Normal School. 12mo, cloth. Retail price, $1.50.

THIS volume consists of selections on educational topics from the writings of more than two hundred authors, most of whom are modern. It should find a place in every library and every home, as well as in the hands of every teacher and educator.

PHYSIOLOGY AND HYGIENE.

A New Series of Temperance Physiologies.

By CHARLES H. STOWELL, M.D., formerly Professor of Histology and Microscopy in the University of Michigan. The series comprises three books, each fully illustrated with original sketches by the author.

Each book of the series has been officially indorsed by the Advisory Committee of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

A Primer of Health.

For primary grades. Introductory price, 36 cents. — Mailing price, 40 cents.

THIS little book is so written, and the subject-matter is presented so simply and naturally that it can be read and understood by pupils who are able to read well in the ordinary Second Reader. While stating in simple language some of the elementary facts of anatomy and physiology, it gives especial attention to the preservation of health.

"I have been greatly pleased with your new Series of Physiologies. The first two books seem particularly well adapted to the work of primary and grammar schools. They are interesting enough for supplementary readers, and at the same time they are thoroughly scientific." — J. A. Graves, Ph.D., Principal of South School, Hartford, Conn.

C. H. Stowell.

A Healthy Body.

For intermediate grades. Introductory price, 50 cents. — Mailing price, 60 cents.

VICIOUS habits often result from a lack of knowledge of the laws of health. Therefore special attention has been given in this book to general hygiene.

Much attention has been given, also, to the effects of stimulants and narcotics, in the belief that the study of the human body, with a knowledge of these effects, will do much to make the coming generation wise, temperate, and moral.

This book has recently been revised with great care. No important changes in the text were necessary, but it has been enriched by some new illustrations, and its value greatly enhanced by the addition of questions upon the text. Each chapter is followed by a list of questions upon the subject discussed in the chapter. If rightly used, questions are a great help to children in preparing lessons.

 Stowell's A Healthy Body was adopted in June, 1891, by the Boston School Committee, for use in the lower grammar grades of the city schools. Its use gives great satisfaction.

"I think the book is excellent, and wish it might be in the hands of all teachers of the young." — Agnes C. Willey, W.C.T.U., Aurora, Ill.

"The children are delighted with it, and I regard it as one of the very best books that have been written for beginners." — James M. Kybolt, Lena, Ill.

"Your Stowell's 'Healthy Body' is excellent; every subject handled adroitly." — J. P. Brouse, Superintendent of Public Schools, Corydon, Ky.

"I have introduced into my school 'A Healthy Body,' and am better pleased with it than with any other text I have ever used or examined." — Emmett Parker, Marion, Ill.

"Stowell's 'A Healthy Body' is the best elementary work on Anatomy, Physiology, Hygiene, Alcohol, and Narcotics that I have seen." — Jno. M. Reid, Principal of Normal Department, Milligan College, Milligan, Tenn.

"I have examined your Physiology, 'A Healthy Body,' and am well pleased with the work. Some of its excellent features are the good illustrations, and the omission of technical terms, which so often hinder the pupils." — B. F. Replegle, Principal, Taylorville, Ill.

"It is one of the neatest and most attractive books of its class that I have ever seen. It seems in every way adapted for the place intended by the author. The work on narcotics and stimulants is clear and meets my cordial approval." — F. E. Matheny, County Superintendent of Schools, Hardin County, Ill.

"I have just finished examining your excellent little book, 'A Healthy Body,' by Dr. Stowell. Its subject-matter has been wisely selected, scientifically treated, and beautifully illustrated. The doctor has hit the nail on the head." — H. P. Montgomery, Supervising Principal of Public Schools, Seventh Division, Sumner School, Washington, D.C.

"It is one of the most complete little volumes on the human body that I have ever examined, and far ahead of any that I have used during my past ten years' experience in the schoolroom. I cannot recommend it too highly. The book speaks for itself. All it wants is a trial to show its superiority." — R. A. Moore, County Superintendent, Kewanee, Wis.

The Essentials of Health.

A Text-Book on Anatomy, Physiology, Hygiene, Alcohol, and Narcotics. Introductory price, 84 cents. — Mailing price, 94 cents.

THIS is a work of 352 pages, prepared for use in advanced grammar grades, and in high schools and academies. While written with a view to making a book that would naturally follow A Healthy Body, and that would suit the needs of pupils who had read that book, it is complete in itself, and may be used independently, or in connection with some other intermediate work.

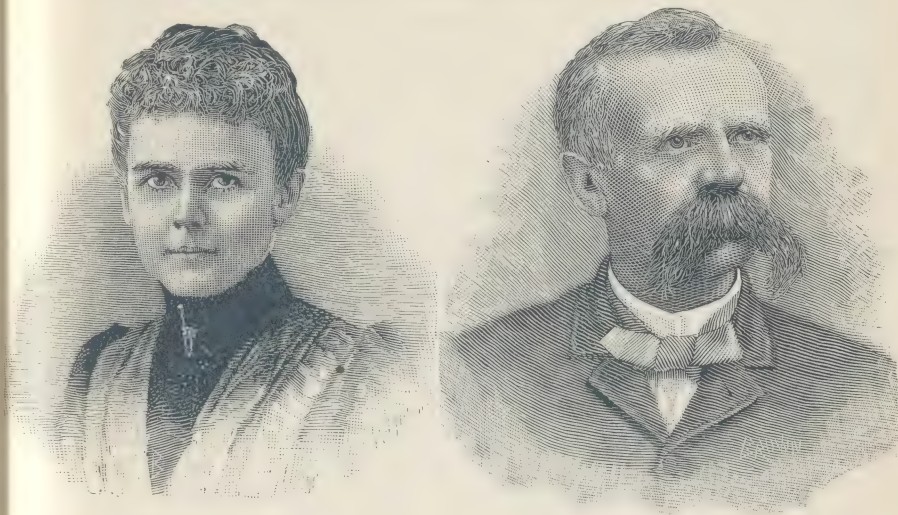

Beginning with "cells," it treats clearly and logically the various subjects which may properly be presented in such a treatise, closing with a valuable chapter on "Emergencies." Special attention is given to food, clothing, exercise, and the care of the body.

The treatment of stimulants and narcotics is from the standpoint of the scientist. Alcohol is set down as a poison which it is dangerous to take into the system; the deleterious effects of tobacco upon youth are strongly urged; and a warning is given against opium, chloral, etc. While moderate in statement on all these questions, it is positive and educative.

READING.

The Normal Course in Reading.

By EMMA J. TODD, Training Teacher in the Public Schools of Aurora, Illinois, and W. B. POWELL, A.M., Superintendent of City Schools, Washington, D.C.

Emma J. Todd. W. B. Powell.

THE publishers take great satisfaction in announcing the above-named Course in Reading, and in calling attention to the many excellent features it contains. It is well known that the authors have studied the subject many years through their daily teaching, and have thoughtfully worked out their plans, proving each step as the work progressed.

Teachers will find this new series distinctive in many ways. The subject-matter relates to live and interesting topics; the arrangement and the style of treatment are methodical and progressive, as will be seen by referring to any topic (Animals, Plants) treated in each of several numbers. No other series contains such a fund of useful information clothed in garb so fascinating; no other series touches so closely and supplements so wisely the ordinary subjects of study pursued in the best conducted schools of the present day; no other series makes such intelligent and thoughtful use of selections from the field of general literature. Throughout the books, these selections have been placed in immediate connection with the text which they have been chosen to illustrate, an arrangement which has most naturally caused as careful a gradation of the quotations made, as of the original matter prepared by the authors.

It will be seen, also, that the primary numbers of the series are based upon thought expression rather than upon word forms, though the latter are not neglected. Ample provision has been made for the study of orthography and orthoepy, and definite suggestions are given for drill in these departments.

But the wide-spread demand for new reading books is based not alone upon a desire for change in subject-matter, however valid such reason may appear, but upon what is of far greater importance,—a need of a more orderly arrangement of related topics resulting in a unified series, logically and symmetrically formed. The authors have brought to the study of this problem wide experience in teaching, ripe scholarship, and large enthusiasm, presenting these new readers as their solution of it. It is confidently believed that their work will bear the test of the most searching criticism.

As a series possessing rare educational value adapted to needs of the schools, The Normal Course in Reading is confidently commended to all who are looking for something more practical and helpful than they have been able to find heretofore.

READERS. •

The Primer — Preliminary Work in Reading — contains a series of carefully arranged Word Pictures, using in all 194 words, the meanings of which the average child knows when he first enters the schoolroom. The purpose of the book is to help the child to a sight knowledge of his own words. 66 pages. Introductory price, 18 cents. — Mailing price, 20 cents.

The First Reader — First Steps in Reading — contains two series of Word Pictures, comprising, together, 48 pages; a series of observation lessons on Common Plants, 36 pages; a like series on Animals, 22 pages; and lessons on Form and Place, 4 pages. The aim of the book is to further enlarge the sight vocabulary of the child, and cultivate his powers of observation and expression. 112 pages. Introductory price, 24 cents. — Mailing price, 28 cents.

The Second Reader — Select Readings and Culture Lessons — contains carefully graded lessons, giving choice Word Pictures drawn from the experiences of childhood, and designed to establish clear views of duty, kindness, self-respect, and unselfishness. To these are added observation lessons, distributed appropriately through the pages, and based upon well-known plants, animals, etc. Many choice selections are given: some for embellishment, and some as entire lessons. The purpose of this book is to cultivate the mind and heart of the pupil, to convey information through the medium of "common things," and to enlarge the child's vocabulary. 160 pages. Introductory price, 36 cents. — Mailing price, 40 cents.

The Third Reader — Diversified Readings and Studies — contains carefully prepared and interesting biographical and historical sketches, bright word-pictures, lessons in elementary science, temperance lessons, patriotic selections, and many lessons, selected or adapted, that are especially designed to develop and strengthen a love for whatever is pure and right. Its ethical side is strong, clear, and attractive. "Common things" and common experiences are employed to enlarge the powers of observation, and to cultivate the imagination. The purpose of this book is to establish, through the medium of interesting studies, a vocabulary of nearly 1600 words. 224 pages. Introductory price, 48 cents. — Mailing price, 54 cents.

The Fourth Reader — The Wonderful Things around us — contains the following chapters in the order named: Our Beautiful World, 72 pages, giving eighteen geographical and geological reading lessons; Plant Life of the Earth, 69 pages, distribution of seeds, habits of plants, etc.; Animal Life of the Earth, 69 pages, comparison, differences of structure and habits, etc.; Our Government and People, 137 pages, a well-arranged series of historical and patriotic readings; and Literary Notes and Suggestions, 13 pages, designed to set before the child an open door to the choicest of American and English Literature. 368 pages. Introductory price, 60 cents. — Mailing price, 66 cents.

The Fifth Reader — Advanced Readings in Literature: Scientific, Geographical, Historical, Patriotic, and Miscellaneous — contains, in addition to well-arranged chapters of geographical, historical, and scientific reading, several well-chosen productions, complete as the authors gave them, which are so analyzed and commented upon that they may easily become elementary studies in English Literature. This feature is worthy of special attention. The purpose of this book is not simply to provide selections and extracts, however excellent in themselves, but rather to present such an arrangement of representative selections, and such plans of study and research, as shall enable the student to enter the field of general literature and choose wisely for himself. Introductory price, 84 cts. — Mailing price, $1.00.

ALTERNATE READERS.

The Alternate Second Reader — Progressive Readings in Nature — presents, in addition to 18 pages of pleasant and entertaining Word Pictures, 54 pages on Plants, 38 pages on Birds, 22 pages on Insects, 18 pages on Our Bodies, and 9 pages on Form and Place. These subjects are grouped in separate chapters, and are especially well calculated to train the powers of observation and develop language expression. Numerous choice selections are given which help to enliven the pages, and illustrate the subjects with which they are connected. The purpose of this book is to give the child something to read about and think about. 160 pages. Introductory price, 36 cents. — Mailing price, 40 cents.

The Alternate Third Reader — How to Read with Open Eyes — contains valuable chapters on the following subjects, divided into appropriate lessons, and so presented that they emphasize the work of training in language expression. First in order is a chapter on Vapor, 44 pages, a notable contribution to children's literature. Then follow a chapter on Plants, 46 pages; Animals that Gnaw, 50 pages; Insects, 14 pages; and Select Readings, 32 pages. The poetical selections are numerous, carefully chosen, and appropriately distributed. The motive of this book is tersely expressed in the sub-title, — train the child to read with open eyes. 224 pages. Introductory price, 48 cents. — Mailing price, 54 cents.

CHARTS.

Primary Reading Charts. — 48 numbers. Illustrated. Beautifully printed on strong manilla paper. Price, complete, with supporter, $10.00.

These Reading Charts have been prepared in response to numerous requests for material for use with beginners, which should be more nearly in accordance with the development lessons and blackboard work now so generally employed by intelligent teachers in primary grades, — charts that may be consistently used in immediate connection with blackboard work, and to a large extent made to take the place of such work, saving the time of the teacher and avoiding the annoyance of so great an amount of chalk dust.

The subject-matter has been carefully arranged. New words are introduced gradually, and the provisions for word drill and word building are more than usually abundant. Attention is also given to the more common abbreviations.

Not the least valuable feature of these charts is the page devoted to Color and Form. It will appeal to every teacher as the most sensible and satisfactory arrangement ever made of such matter. The lesson on the American Flag, with an elegant picture of the flag in colors, will be found especially attractive and pleasing.

The Normal Course in Reading is indorsed by hundreds of the most progressive teachers, and is in satisfactory use in many cities and towns.

"I am delighted with the books, and shall put them at once into my schools."—F. F. Barrows, Principal Brown School, Hartford, Conn.

"The best I can say for them this time is that, if we had the selection of Readers, we would select the 'Normal Course.'"—George E. Knepper, Superintendent, Santa Barbara, Cal.

"I am happy to say that your Readers are proving to be even more acceptable here than we expected them to be,—and we expected much."—H. O. Wheeler, Superintendent of Schools, Burlington, Vt.

"The Normal Readers are just the books to follow observation work in our primary schools. They are excellent."—Margaret T. Hurley, Special Teacher of Reading, Public Schools of Fall River, Mass.

"These Readers have many points of excellence, among which the lessons leading children to observe objects in Nature are noteworthy features."—Lewis H. Meader, Principal Academy Avenue Grammar School, Providence, R.I.

"Among the many good reading books now published we consider those of 'The Normal Course in Reading' among the best. By 'we' I mean the teachers and myself."—W. E. Hatch, Superintendent of Schools, New Bedford, Mass.

"I am very much pleased with your recent publication, 'The Normal Course in Reading.' It is very well graded, and the subjects are well chosen and treated in an attractive manner."—C. E. Meleney, Superintendent of Schools, Somerville, Mass.

"I think the Readers are calculated to cause the child to observe things about him, and to state facts observed and to think about what he reads. With a thoughtful teacher they must be a success."—P. R. Walker, Superintendent of Schools, Rockford, Ill.

"I am particularly pleased with the more advanced Readers as having less of the unnatural patchwork character so common to reading-books, and more real value as a means to foster a love for literature and for science study."—Miss J. L. Terry, Training Teacher, St. Paul, Minn.

"We have two of 'The Normal Course in Reading' in practical use in the Woburn schools, and the teachers speak in the highest terms of their excellence. The material is of a very interesting nature and logically arranged."—F. B. Richardson, Superintendent of Schools, Woburn, Mass.

"Some time ago I received copies of the 'Normal Course in Reading,' Nos. 1, 2, and 3. These I have carefully examined with much pleasure. They form an excellent set of Readers, and you are justified in expecting them to find a welcome place in the public schools. They are well graded, and the matter contained is so prepared as to give systematic instruction in the study of Nature and Form, as well as in the art of Reading."—E. L. Briggs, Superintendent of Schools, Grand Haven, Mich.

"The method of having a number of selections treat of one general topic is psychologically and pedagogically sound, as is also the aim kept in mind by the authors to have each succeeding selection to grow out of the preceding one so that it may be explained and understood by it. No new information can be understood or assimilated unless there is already in the mind a certain amount of organized knowledge which contains elements of this new knowledge, and with which it will readily fit, so to speak."—M. V. O'Shea, Professor in State Normal School, Mankato, Minn.

"After a careful examination of these books, I wish to commend them for the following reason: First, they do not consist of a medley of selections thrown together without plan, but are organized in accordance with a definite and most excellent plan. Second, instead of the trash that constitutes the greater part of the average school readers, these books present a series of well-graded science lessons. Third, the matter is so selected and arranged as to be both valuable and interesting to the child."—T. G. Alford, Supervising Principal, Indianapolis, Ind.

These new Readers have attracted wide attention, and are already in use in many leading cities, including New York, Brooklyn, Washington, Providence, Burlington (Vt.), Elgin, Aurora, West Superior, Detroit, Battle Creek, Ypsilanti, etc., etc. Used also in many State Normal and Training Schools.

SUPPLEMENTARY READING FOR SCHOOL AND HOME.

The Young Folks' Library.

For School and Home.

Edited by LARKIN DUNTON, LL.D., Head Master Boston Normal School.

A SERIES of choice volumes for supplementary reading, prepared and edited with careful reference to their helpfulness in the education of the young. Designed to supplement the ordinary school reading-books with valuable practice in reading, and at the same time to reinforce the instruction in special lines of school study with useful information and choice selections from the best literature.

Each volume of the Young Folks' Library is prepared by some one of our ablest writers for young people, and all are carefully edited by Larkin Dunton, LL.D., Head Master of the Boston Normal School.

Vol. 1. Stories of Child Life.—Book I. At Home.

By ANNA B. BADLAM. Introductory price, 24 cents.—Mailing price, 27 cents.

This little book is designed to follow the reading of any common primer. It assumes that the very first steps in reading have been taken by the children, and that they now need further drill in recalling and recombining the printed words which they have already learned, and further help in mastering new words.

Vol. 2. Stories of Child Life.—Book II. At Play.

By ANNA B. BADLAM. Introductory price, 30 cents.—Mailing price, 33 cents.

This book is designed to follow Stories of Child Life, Book I., and to be read during the last part of the first year of school life. The first pages are very simple, so that the words used in Book I. may be well reviewed and fixed in mind before many new and difficult words are introduced.

Vol. 3. Stories of Child Life.—Book III. In the Country.

By ANNA B. BADLAM. Introductory price, 36 cents.—Mailing price, 40 cents.

This book is designed to be read after Stories of Child Life, Book II. It deals with the common experience of most children who have been in school one year, and is therefore within their comprehension. The new words are introduced so gradually, and repeated so frequently, that the children, while reading the book, will add materially to their knowledge of printed words.

Vol. 4. Stories of Child Life.—Book IV. At School.

By ANNA B. BADLAM. Introductory price, 42 cents.—Mailing price, 47 cents.

This volume is intended to be read after Stories of Child Life, Book III. It is adapted for use as a supplementary reader during the third year of school life. It deals in the main with what is familiar to the child. An attempt has been made in a few instances to enable the children to construct pictures of scenes in unknown lands; but here most of the ideas needed by them are those gained in their own experience at home.

Vol. 5. The World and its People. — Book I. First Lessons.

Introductory price, 36 cents. — Mailing price, 40 cents.

The study of geography in common schools has constantly increased for the last twenty-five years, and has gradually extended downwards in the classes, till, as is generally acknowledged by educational men, it occupies too large a part of the course of study. This series of Geographical Readers now offered to the public under the title of The World and its People, is intended to remedy this evil. This volume, as its title implies, forms the introduction to the series.

Vol. 6. The World and its People. — Book II. Glimpses of the World.

Introductory price, 36 cents. — Mailing price, 40 cents.

This book, as its title implies, is designed to give the reader some "glimpses of the world." If Book I. of The World and its People has been carefully read, there will be no difficulty in reading and understanding this book. This is not a formal treatise on geography. It aims to present such pictures of places and persons as will interest children, and fit them for the study of geography proper when they shall be old enough and mature enough for that work.

Vol. 7. The World and its People. — Book III. Our Own Country.

By MINNA C. SMITH. Introductory price, 50 cents. — Mailing price, 56 cents.

This volume has been written especially for the series by one of our most accomplished writers for young people. It deals entirely with places and scenes in our own country, and with our own American people. No young person will read this volume without gaining a fund of useful information concerning his own land which will be of the greatest value in all subsequent study and reading.

Vol. 8. The World and Its People. — Book IV. — Our American Neighbors.

By FANNY E. COE. Introductory price, 60 cents. — Mailing price, 67 cents.

Having become acquainted with his own country in the preceding volume of this series, the child is now introduced to his neighbors in Canada, Mexico, Central America, and South America. The author takes her reader to the chief cities of these countries, and introduces him to the people there. So graphically are these neighbors described, with their customs and surroundings, that, with only a very slight effort of the imagination, the reader sees the pictures as with his very eyes. No child can fail to be delighted with the description of the ice palace and the carnival of winter sports held every year in Canada. The book is a fascinating one, and the child who begins to read it will desire to peruse it to the end.

"'Our American Neighbors' is a timely book which will be helpful to the geography class." — W. S. Perry, Superintendent of Schools, Ann Arbor, Mich.

"I am charmed with it. The matter is interesting and instructive; the illustrations are numerous and beautiful; and the typography is perfect. Children cannot fail to be captured by such a book as this." — D. B. Hagar, Principal State Normal School, Salem, Mass.

Vol. 9. The World and Its People. — Book V. — Modern Europe.

By FANNY E. COE. Introductory price, 60 cents. — Mailing price, 67 cents.

In this book the author introduces the reader to Europe as it is, and shows him the people as they live, visiting country after country from England to Turkey. Nothing like it has heretofore been offered to the youth of our country. Every class should read it in connection with the study of Europe. It is a book for the fireside as well.

ENGLISH CLASSICS.

Select English Classics.

By JAMES BALDWIN, Ph.D., author of "The Book Lover," etc. Five volumes.

Vol. 1. Six Centuries of English Poetry. Introductory price, 72 cents. — Mailing price, $1.00.

Vol. 2. The Famous Allegories. (In press.)

Vol. 3. The Book of Elegies. (In preparation.)

Vol. 4. Famous English Lyrics. (In preparation.)

Vol. 5. Single Famous Poems of the Nineteenth Century. (In preparation.)

THIS series is designed to furnish for high schools and academies, colleges, seminaries, normal schools, and reading clubs, convenient texts with which to study representative selections from various departments of English Literature. They will also be convenient and interesting for general readers.

Of Volume 1 it may be said that it is not presented as a book from which or with which to study the history of poetry. Its object is to offer a plan for promoting the study of poetry itself, before the broader but less important study about poetry is undertaken. It presents representative poems written at different times and by men of widely different tastes and talents, during the six centuries which may be said to have elapsed since the formation of the modern English tongue. The chief aim is to lead to such a study of these selections as shall help the reader to perceive and appreciate their poetic qualities and enter into full sympathy with the thoughts and feelings which their writers intended to express.

To accomplish this object rationally and successfully, the compiler has thought it best to begin with those productions which are nearest to us in point of time, and which are more in harmony with our own modes of thought. Hence the order from Tennyson to Chaucer, instead of the chronological arrangement. The order chosen introduces the reader to works that are easily understood, and leads him gradually to the more remote and mechanically difficult.

The study of poetry and the study of the history of poetry are two very different things. Six Centuries is intended to aid the former; yet one who wishes to pursue the latter may easily begin his reading with Chaucer.

"The selections in this book are well made; the notes and biographic notices are brief but sufficient; each of the early English poems is furnished with necessary glossary, and the typography and general literary and mechanical execution of the book are excellent. For a person who has only difficult access to books, and who yet would like to know somewhat of the great masters of English poetry, this book will prove not less helpful than to the youthful student." — Providence Journal, Providence, R.I.

"The selections, both of poems and criticism, are in excellent taste. The plan, too, is good. Sailing up the stream of time with such a good pilot as Mr. Baldwin will be very pleasant for students. I heartily indorse also the advice given in the Introduction, — to learn a poem thoroughly, — advice that cannot be given often enough in our day of many books." — Harriet A. Hamilton, Mt. Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass.

Shakespeare.

The Merchant of Venice.

By HOMER B. SPRAGUE, A.M., Ph.D., Principal of Peralta Hall (Young Ladies' School), Berkeley, Cal., formerly Head Master of the Girls' High School, Boston, and Professor of Rhetoric and English Literature in Cornell University. Cloth, flexible covers. Introductory price, 48 cents.
— Mailing price, 55 cents.

Macbeth.

By HOMER B. SPRAGUE, A.M., Ph.D. Cloth, flexible covers. Introductory price, 48 cents.
— Mailing price, 55 cents.

Hamlet.

By HOMER B. SPRAGUE, A.M., Ph.D. Cloth, flexible covers. Introductory price, 48 cents.
— Mailing price, 55 cents.

Julius Cæsar.

(In preparation.)

THE publishers take pleasure in announcing that Merchant of Venice and Macbeth have recently been thoroughly revised. In the publication of these revised editions, great care has been taken to present the volumes in attractive garb, and to make them worthy of a place in the choicest libraries.

Homer B. Sprague

Since the appearance of our Catalogue for 1892 we have added Hamlet to the list, thus bringing Colonel Sprague's Shakespeare volumes together to the convenience of all who desire to possess them. In addition to the four volumes here announced by name, others are in contemplation, which will be published as soon as prepared, the aim being to supply the means for a reasonably complete study of the immortal poet.

The critical comments and suggestions accompanying these plays are a distinguishing feature, which admirably adapts the books to use in schools or literary clubs. Each volume contains an appendix giving valuable suggestions as to "How to Study English Literature." The notes, analyses, topics for essays, etc., render the volumes very helpful to students and teachers alike.

SPELLING.

The Normal Course in Spelling.

For Public and Private Schools.

By LARKIN DUNTON, LL.D., Head Master of the Boston Normal School, and C. GOODWIN CLARK, A.M., late Master of the Gaston School. Introductory price, 24 cents. — Mailing price, 27 cents.

THIS book is based upon such a philosophic classification of words as will appeal directly to the pupil's power of association, and upon such illustration of their meaning as will enlighten his understanding. Thus the analogies of form and sound, as well as the power of clear ideas, are used to lighten the work of learning to spell. The Normal Course in Spelling is the outgrowth of long, practical experience in school work, and of a strong conviction on the part of its distinguished authors, that the "Spelling Book" has an important mission in our common schools.

"The 'Normal Course in Spelling' is just what any school needs." — O. M. Jones, Teacher Grammar Department, Louisville, Ill.

"I am more than pleased with it. I need it in my teaching, and my pupils need it for themselves." — Juliette R. Hayward, Gaston School, Boston, Mass.

"The 'Normal Course in Spelling' appears to be a very sensible spelling book. Its points of excellence are such that I would like to see it in use in our schools." — Lewis H. Meader, Principal Academy Avenue Grammar School, Providence, R.I.

"The 'Normal Course in Spelling' is admirably adapted to serve the purpose for which it was prepared — an aid to teach the spelling of English words. It is the best spelling book I have yet examined." — F. E. Parlin, Superintendent of Schools, Stockbridge, Mass.

 The State of Vermont recently adopted text-books for five years. Of the fourteen counties which the State includes, ten adopted the NORMAL COURSE IN SPELLING after careful consideration and comparison with other books, and notwithstanding the fact that several others were offered at lower prices.

Normal Spelling Blank.

Introductory price, 42 cents per dozen. — Mailing price, 47 cents per dozen.

THE Normal Spelling Blank is designed to meet the demand for a Writing Speller that is complete, convenient, and that will retain in a simple form a record of the pupil's work, that the results may be noted and progress determined. It contains 36 pages, of two columns each, giving space in each column for twenty words, with extra lines at the bottom for rewriting words incorrectly spelled in the lesson. It also furnishes 8 pages specially adapted to dictation work. Its convenience and economy will commend it to every teacher who examines it. Hundreds are using it with the greatest satisfaction.

By D. H. FARLEY, Professor of Penmanship in the State Normal School of New Jersey, at Trenton, and W. B. GUNNISON, Principal of Public School No. 19, Brooklyn, N.Y., Ex-President of the New York State Teachers' Association.

D. H. Farley

W. B. Gunnison

THIS system of Writing is the outgrowth of long special experience in teaching penmanship, combined with large practical experience in regular schoolroom work. It is the only system yet published which recognizes that fundamental principle of all successful teaching — constant and systematic review. The value of this principle as applied to the teaching of penmanship, will be readily understood and appreciated. The hand must be trained to execute what the mind conceives.

The Model Guide and Copy-Book Covers.

By D. H. FARLEY, Professor of Penmanship in the State Normal School of New Jersey, at Trenton. Introductory price, per dozen, 60 cents. — Mailing price, 67 cents.

A MOST convenient and serviceable device for the preservation of the copy-book when in use, furnishing at the same time valuable suggestions, through diagrams and illustrations, respecting position at desk, holding of pen, movements, etc. Contains also valuable explanations, definitions of terms, etc.

"I am very much pleased with 'The Movement Tablets,' and regard them as a very good feature of the 'Normal Review System of Writing.'" — C. E. Meleny, Superintendent, Somerville, Mass.

"'The Normal Review System of Penmanship,' adopted in September last, is without a rival. Would not give it up for anything I have ever seen during my twenty-five years of teaching." — T. B. Greenlaw, Superintendent of Public Schools, Flora, Ill.

"'The Normal Review System of Writing' has been used in the public schools of Providence about one and one-half years, and meets with general favor. The movement exercises are a particularly valuable feature." — H. S. Tarbell, Superintendent of Schools, Providence, R.I.

"'The Normal Review System of Writing,' which has been used for more than a year in our public schools, has given good satisfaction. The teachers are much pleased with it. We recommend it as a practical and well-devised system." — D. S. Keith, City Superintendent, Altoona, Pa.

"I take pleasure in pronouncing your 'Normal Review System of Writing' superior to all others, containing, as it does, several new and practical educational features never before embraced in a series of copy books. The new feature of a systematic review of each copy is especially commendable, as it furnishes a remedy for several of the defects found in the older systems of penmanship." — Charles W. Fuller, State Superintendent, Trenton, N.J.

MUSICAL.

Music Readers, Charts, Instruction Books, and Other Helps.The Normal Music Course.

By JOHN W. TUFTS and H. E. HOLT. A complete series of Music Readers and Charts, for every grade of School and Class Instruction in Vocal Music.

John W. TuftsH. E. Holt

THE history of the origin and growth of The Normal Music Course is a record of one of the most astonishing revolutions that has been wrought in the history of any branch of education. The Teachers' Manual, in which some of the distinctive postulates of the system were first set forth and its underlying philosophy suggested and partially unfolded, was published some seven years since. The First Reader was issued at about the same time. The remaining volumes in the series, with the charts and other helps and appliances for the aid both of teachers and pupils, have followed at frequent intervals, until, to-day, the publishers have no hesitancy in claiming that The Normal Music Course is the most complete system of music instruction for school and class use ever produced in this or any other country. Moreover, from the smallest beginning, it has grown in extent of use during the last seven years until, to-day, it is safe to say that it is used in a larger number of leading places in this country than any other system of music instruction now published ; and it has exerted a wider influence than any other on the educational thought of the country,—influencing the thought and methods of many of those even who profess to be believers and adherents of other systems.

The wonderful growth and strength of The Normal Music Course and the general favor with which it is to-day regarded by the musicians and educators of this country, are due to the fact that this System presents and exemplifies as no other system of music instruction ever has, the best pedagogy in musical setting. In this respect The Normal Music Course reveals in creation and adaptation the insight and power of true genius. The provision which is here made for each step of the learner's progress, and the bearing of each step upon every subsequent step, conforming in the whole extent, scope, and progress of the work to those subtle and eternal laws of the mind, in accordance with which all true teaching and all true learning must proceed,—all this has given The Normal Music Course that success, wherever intelligently used, which has at once enlisted the confidence and approbation of those who have witnessed the results of its use. The Normal Music Course, properly used, furnishes all the material necessary for the complete education of the child in singing and in knowledge of the best musical literature of the world. Teachers who make themselves thoroughly familiar with the work provided in the several Readers and Charts of the Course, and then lead their pupils through this work as rapidly as they are prepared to advance, will be constantly surprised at the rapidity of the progress which will be made, and at the completeness of the provision which will be found for the learner's every need and capacity—whether mental or vocal.

"We have made more progress this year than we ever made before." — C. E. Gorton, Superintendent, Yonkers, N.Y.

"I am delighted with the 'Normal Music Course.' I have found it most excellent in graded work. While it is all it claims to be in teaching 'sight-singing,' it also develops a taste for good music, which is a most important part of our work." — Mrs. J. Powell Rice, Teacher of Music, Los Angeles, Cal., Public Schools.

"This course trains the ear and eye at the same time, teaching the pupil to pass rapidly and with ease from one key to another. The proficiency of some of the primary and intermediate pupils is truly remarkable, and pupils of the advanced grades will have to look well to their laurels." — Report of Superintendent of Schools, Concord, N.H.

"The 'Normal Music Course' has been in use in all departments of our city schools for the past four months. Judging by the success already achieved and my limited acquaintance with it, I think it admirably adapted for use in such schools as ours." — B. F. Hood, Superintendent of City Schools, Aberdeen, S. Dak.

"The 'Normal Music Course' has been used in schools under my supervision for nearly three years with marked success. The peculiar and valuable feature, in my estimation, is that it makes the execution as well as the study of Music dependent upon thought processes." — Chas. W. Deane, Principal State Normal School, Indiana, Pa. (Late Superintendent of Public Schools, Sioux City, Iowa).

"The Music Charts prepared by Messrs. Tufts and Holt have now been used in our primary schools for some weeks. The results of our trial of the system are very satisfactory, and show that it is a system of musical instruction excellently adapted to children. We shall want the Readers next term." — C. C. Rounds, Principal of State Normal School, Plymouth, N.H.

"I heartily endorse the 'Normal Music Course.' Although we have used it but a short time, the result is most satisfactory. It is well graded, contains much drill work, and in the hands of earnest teachers cannot fail to make good sight-readers. The interest of the children and the teachers in this work is its best recommendation." — E. A. Gasman, Superintendent, Decatur, Ill.

"We have used the 'Normal Music Course' for several years, and, after comparing the results with the results of other methods, I take pleasure in saying that I think it by far the best. For procuring accuracy of pitch, ability to sing readily at sight, purity of tone, and intelligent singing, I think this method has no equal." — Herbert Griggs, Director of Music in Public Schools, Denver, Col.

"The 'Normal Music Course' is being used in all departments of our school with equal success, and has proved itself worthy of the reputation it bears. When used intelligently, it cannot fail to give remarkable results. The work is based on sound educational principles, and is thoroughly progressive throughout. It is by far the best system published." — Caroline V. Smith, Special Teacher of Music, State Normal School, Winona, Minn.

"I have carefully examined your 'Normal Music Course,' and find it, without exception, the most practical method I have ever seen. If such a course of study could be extensively used in America, a large crop of thorough sight-readers would certainly follow, and the foundation of a thorough musical taste and education would be more surely established." — Louis C. Elson, New England Conservatory of Music, Boston.

"I am glad to say something for the 'Normal Course,' and believe its strong points are the simplicity of method and gradual progression from one difficulty to another. The pupils seem to grasp each new difficulty and master it at once. It is pleasant to note the surprise and pleasure expressed in their faces when they have done this with ease. I think we shall be able to show great results by the close of the year." — Miss Lettie Grogan, Special Teacher of Music, Iowa City, Ia.

"After carefully looking over the different music books now used in our public schools throughout the country, I feel free to say that I consider the 'Normal Music Course' the best in use. The names of the authors are enough to recommend it wherever it goes. I would like to see the Course introduced in the schools of our cities where music is not taught, and a special teacher in each place with brains to push it." — George W. Renwick, Teacher of Music, Public Schools, Muskegon, Mich.

"After a most careful comparison of the leading musical systems, our board of education adopted the 'Normal Music Course.' I am thoroughly convinced of the superiority of this method. The plan embodied in it stimulates the thought of the pupil from the very beginning. The merry jingle of other plans sounds very attractive, but unfortunately knowledge does not come that way. The 'Normal Course' will have the support of all good teachers who thoroughly examine it." — Myron W. Cobb, Supervisor of Music, South Bend, Ind.

"Please permit me to say a word in favor of the 'Normal Music Course.' I think I can state in a single sentence that which distinguishes it from all other courses, viz.: It is placed before the mind of the student in an educational form, and the mind opens to receive it. All educators must at once perceive that this system employs the same methods of instruction that are now becoming incorporated into all the most approved courses of study in other branches of learning." — C. Wesley Emerson, M.D., President of Emerson College of Oratory, Boston.

"I have had in my possession for the past three years a full set of the 'Normal Music Course,' and have also attended the Western Normal School at Highland Park, Ill., in which this system is taught, and unhesitatingly say that this Course of Music is incomparably the best of its kind. The 'Normal Course in Music' is the one and only course established on true pedagogical principles, and is growing in favor daily throughout this country." — Wm. A. Ogden, Superintendent of Music in Public Schools, Toledo, O.

To those who are thoroughly acquainted with the Normal Music Course it is unnecessary to state that the selections here classed as "supplementary" are in reality additional songs, furnishing facilities for increased training on the artistic side, rather than for practice in music reading and music study in the sense in which the books and charts are prepared. Many schools, after careful drill in the elements of music, desire to exhibit to the public some features of the progress made, and, in addition, to render a few good songs especially prepared for the occasion. To provide for this latter demand, these selections, adapted to nearly all classes and grades, have been carefully arranged.

The Library of Temperance Song.

For School and Home.

THIS series of songs is designed to furnish in suitable and convenient form and adapted to the wants and capacities — both musical and vocal — of young singers, a choice variety of songs of such musical and literary merit as will render them helpful and influential as an aid to the education of young people in the sentiments and principles of temperance. These songs will be published in small collections or series, each series containing several numbers adapted to different voices, and of varying grades of musical difficulty.

First Series. — 16 pages.

JOHN W. TUFTS, Musical Editor.

The First Series, now ready, comprises the following selections: —

No.	VOICES.	No.	VOICES.
1. Look not on the Wine. . . .	S.	5. Happy Springtime	S.
2. The Spring's Invitation . . .	S. S. A.	6. Cold Water Song	S. S. A.
3. Sounding the Battle Cry . . .	S. A. T. B.	7. The True Nectar	S. A. T. B.
4. The Master's Call	S.	8. Come, let us Sing	S.

Introductory price, 10 cents each; $8.00 per 100. — Mailing price, $9.00 per 100.

Other selections will be added to "The Library of Temperance Song" in the near future.

The Young Folks' Library of Song.

Vol. I. Child Life in Song.

Containing 54 beautiful full-page songs, with Accompaniments for the Pianoforte. For Home, Kindergarten, and School. Composed, selected, and arranged by JOHN W. TUFTS. Fine cloth. Introductory price, 60 cents. — Mailing price, 65 cents.

THE songs comprised in this volume were first published as the "Rote Songs" of the Normal Music Course, their popularity in that form, and also as Part II. of the First Reader of the Normal Music Course (previous to the edition of 1888) having induced their publication under this new title. In this form the book becomes Vol. I. of the new "Young Folks' Library of Song" Series, which the publishers propose to make very attractive and useful for School and Home. Other volumes will follow.

Sunshine Melodies.

A Recreation Song-Book for Primary Schools, Kindergartens, and Private Classes.

Music by Prof. NATHAN L. GLOVER, Superintendent of Music, Public Schools, Akron, O. Words by Mrs. MALANA A. HARRIS, Teacher in the Public Schools, Akron, O. Introductory price, 36 cents. — Mailing price, 40 cents.

A CHOICE collection of sixty-three bright new rote songs, and eight recitations — all gathered from schoolroom experience.

The Cecilian Series of Study and Song.

By JOHN W. TUFTS. A complete series of School Song-Books, adapted to any grade of Schools, to Private Classes, and to Choral Societies.

THE Cecilian Series of Study and Song was undertaken in response to a well-defined demand for additional songs of a higher order than those found in the ordinary school song-books, and yet so simple in character and composition that the children and youth can readily comprehend them and sing them with comparative ease. The teachers have very generally grown weary of the frivolous jingles that please only for a time, and that have no permanent place in the work of music education.

It is no part of the plan of the Cecilian Series to provide an elaborate course of study in vocal music for purposes of school and class drill, — this field being already amply and sufficiently covered by the Readers and Charts of the Normal Music Course. It has seemed wise, however, to insert in each book a sufficient number of carefully graded exercises to enable teachers, who are not supplied with the books and charts of the Normal Music Course, or who are engaged in schools where, for any reason, the use of a complete graded system of instruction in vocal music is not at present feasible, however much it may be desired, to train their pupils in many of the simpler problems in ordinary vocal music.

While, therefore, the instruction side has not been ignored, the pre-eminent value of these books as a song series especially adapts them to supplementary use, in the several grades for which they are respectively designed, in connection with the work from the regular Readers and Charts, and the publishers feel confident that when so employed their use will give renewed zest and greatly increased interest and value to the regular graded work of music instruction.

Careful inquiry having developed the fact that the advanced grammar grades of city schools, and the high schools throughout the country, were looking most anxiously for such provision, Book IV. of the series was first prepared. It met with marked favor at once on its publication, and has attained a remarkable sale during the comparatively short time it has been before the public. The reception of this book encouraged both author and publishers, verifying as it did their judgment of the wants of the schools. The preparation of the lower books of the series was immediately undertaken, and pushed forward as vigorously as was consistent with care in their preparation. They contain songs with accompaniments, songs without accompaniments, festival songs, choruses, and glees.

A glance at the plan and scope of the Cecilian Series will show that the books may be profitably and satisfactorily used by any grade of schools. As already suggested, the great number of choice new songs contained in these books, renders them especially well fitted to accompany or follow the Normal Music Readers, wherever, for any reason, additional songs are required. The special provision for review drill will give the pupil enlarged views, and enable him to appreciate more fully the study element presented with such care and in such detail in the Normal Music Course.

The Series is now complete, and it is gratifying to be able to state that Books I., II., and III. have been as heartily commended by musicians and teachers as Book IV. was.

Superintendents, teachers, music teachers, and Boards of Education who desire fresh song-books filled with the choicest music will do well to examine the Cecilian Series of Study and Song.

Book I. — For One Voice. Elegant silk cloth binding, red edges. Introductory price, 48 cents. — Mailing price, 54 cents.

This is a volume of 96 pages, designed for primary schools and classes. Part I., 32 pages, is devoted to exercises and studies, and Part II., 64 pages, to bright and attractive songs. The studies are so carefully arranged that teachers will find no trouble in using them to prepare for any difficulty, in tune or time, to be met with in the songs.

Book II. — For Soprano and Alto Voices. Elegant silk cloth binding, red edges. Introductory price, 60 cents. — Mailing price, 67 cents.

Part I. of this volume, 48 pages, contains 200 two-part studies in tune, besides numerous exercises in time. The remaining 96 pages, Part II., are filled with two-part songs. This is a valuable book for intermediate grades, containing as it does large provision for drill and study through which to prepare for difficulties, and an abundance of choice songs (56) for recreation and practice.

Book III. — For Unchanged Voices, with Added Notes for Basses and Tenors. Elegant silk cloth binding, red edges. Introductory price, 84 cents. — Mailing price, 94 cents.

An especially valuable book for grammar grades, furnishing as it does, in Part I., 80 pages of exercises and studies for drill and review, and, in Part II., 112 pages of charming songs. The special provision made in this book for immature tenors and basses will be appreciated by every teacher who has studied the development of the human voice. The arrangement of "added notes" will guard against the injury of voices, and, at the same time, prove a decided help in getting boys to sing.

Book IV. — For Mixed Voices. Elegant silk cloth binding, red edges. Adapted to use in Advanced Grammar Grades, High Schools, and Chorus Classes. Introductory price, 84 cents. — Mailing price, 94 cents.

Part I. of this work contains 32 pages of exercises and studies for review, and Part II. 160 pages of part songs and choruses. The work has been adopted by a large number of cities and towns, private schools, Normal Schools, etc. Wherever used it has given great satisfaction, and is decidedly popular.

"We are delighted to have the 'Cecilian,' Book IV., and are all much pleased with the music."—Miss Mary E. Parker, Director of Music, Public Schools, Altoona, Pa.

"I have carefully studied Book IV. of the 'Cecilian Series,' and consider it superior to any work of the kind which has come under my notice."—Mrs. M. E. Brand, Director of Music in City Schools, Madison, Wis.

"It is just what we needed. I like the drill work very much, and the book is one that will help our pupils to a better appreciation of good music."—Miss E. A. Gramling, Director of Music, Public Schools, Rochester, Minn.

"The books are pleasing in appearance and of convenient size and form. Their contents are particularly interesting. The careful arrangement of the exercises, both as regards melody and rhythm, is particularly commendable."—Miss J. Ettie Crane, State Normal School, and Normal Conservatory of Music, Potsdam, N. Y.

"The book ('Cecilian Series,' Book IV.) meets my entire approval, and I assure you I shall greet the appearance of others of the series with delight."—Miss Dora E. Curtis, Teacher, of Music, Public Schools, Providence, R. I.

"I especially like the class of music used, and the fact that it comes from Mr. Tufts' hand, to me insures its beauty from a harmonic standpoint. It will undoubtedly prove a valuable book to leaders of chorus classes, especially in the high school work."—Harriet E. Paige, Supervisor of Music in Public Schools, Terre Haute, Ind.

The School Hymnary.

A Collection of Hymns and Tunes and Patriotic Songs for Use in Public and Private Schools. Compiled and Arranged by JOSEPH A. GRAVES, PH.D., Principal of South School, Hartford, Conn. Introductory price, 48 cents.—Mailing price, 54 cents.

A THREEFOLD purpose has governed the compiler in making this collection: (1) To select the best hymns in the language for the ordinary exercises of worship in public and private schools; (2) To set these hymns to tunes of a worthy and permanent character, which should yet be within the musical ability of young children; (3) To so arrange the tunes that they may be sung with increasing pleasure and profit, as advancement is made.

The hymns are entirely unsectarian; the music is simple; and the book is believed to be well adapted to school use.

The Student's Hymnal.

Hymns of Praise with Selections from Scripture for Reading and Chanting. Edited by THOMAS J. MORGAN, A.M., D.D., and EDWARD K. GLEZEN, A.M. Elegant cloth and gilt. 144 pages. Red edges. Introductory price, 60 cents.—Mailing price, 67 cents.

THIS volume is the outgrowth of many years of experience both in educational and musical work, and it is hoped that the selection of hymns which it contains, as well as the portions of Scripture for responsive reading and chanting, will be found especially appropriate for the devotional exercises of schools and colleges.

PIANO-FORTE INSTRUCTION.

The Synthetic Method for the Piano-Forte.

A systematic development of Notation, Rhythm, Touch, Technic, Melody, Harmony, and Form. By ALBERT ROSS PARSONS, A.M., Professor of the Piano-Forte in the Metropolitan College of Music, New York City. Arranged and developed by Miss KATE S. CHITTENDEN, Assistant Professor of the Piano-Forte in the Metropolitan College of Music. — Metropolitan College Course.

Albert Ross Parsons

THE eminence of the above-named authors bespeaks for the Synthetic Method a favorable reception by all teachers of the piano-forte. Both are known as composers and teachers of high rank.

Professor Parsons is one of the foremost musicians in this country, well known as a pianist, organist, composer, writer, lecturer, and teacher. A musician born, he held the position of church organist for several years before he was fifteen. At the age of seventeen, he entered the Conservatory of Music in Leipsic, and for five years, in that city and in Berlin, studied with such musicians as Moscheles, Reinecke, Richter, and Tausig. He is a broadly cultured man, and his work is a very plain demonstration of the advantage of breadth of education in any special line of work. Those who know him as a teacher are impressed with his "common-sense" methods, and his skill in adapting his instruction to the mental condition and requirements of each pupil. His pedagogic ideas are well grounded and clear.

Professor Parsons is director of the piano-forte department in the Metropolitan College of Music in New York City, and also in Evelyn College, Princeton, N.J., and is one of the original charter members and incorporators of the American College of Musicians. He has also held the office of President of the Music Teachers' National Association.

Miss Chittenden is a pupil of Professor Parsons, and one who does credit to her teacher. She is thoroughly imbued with the spirit of his method of instruction, which she embodies in her own teaching as assistant professor in his department. Besides being a successful teacher, she is also a talented author and composer.

Her name is known in connection with the Calvary Hymnal, of which she was one of the editors. She is well qualified to set forth Professor Parsons's methods of piano-forte instruction in a clear and practical manner.

The Synthetic Method embodies the principles of piano-forte instruction carried out in the Metropolitan College of Music. The work is fully illustrated by charts and diagrams, as an aid to the understanding of the text. The study of Harmony and Form in connection with the little pieces and exercises at the outset, presents an entirely novel feature in the Synthetic Method which undertakes to be what its name indicates, a system of upbuilding.

A glance at the table of contents of Synthetic Method, Part I., will show that its special aim is to train simultaneously both the fingers and the musical understanding with a view to laying the foundation for a solid education in music, from the very beginning. Everywhere, throughout the work, little heads are required to think while little hands learn to play, and nobly do the children respond to the demand. Instead of being kept exclusively in mental grooves all determined for them in advance, they here find themselves working with tones as with musical building blocks, and the pleasure which they take in thinking for themselves they express by a manifestation of ever increasing interest in their music.

The special value of pianoforte study as an educational means is widely appreciated, but in this as in all other departments it is important to choose the best method, and as such a method, the Synthetic is commended to pianoforte teachers.

Progressive Gymnastic Day's Orders.

According to the Ling System.

By CLAES J. ENEBUSKE, A.M., Ph.D., Principal of Normal Instruction in the Boston Normal School of Gymnastics, Vice-President of the American Association for the Advancement of Physical Education, formerly Principal of the Chautauqua School of Swedish Gymnastics.

First Collection. Arranged for class work in schoolrooms without gymnastic apparatus.

116 pages with an introduction. Fully illustrated. Introductory price, 75 cents. — Mailing price, 83 cents.

Claes J. Enebuske.

IT is no longer a question of whether physical training shall be introduced into the schools. The only question now heard is "What is the best and most philosophical system?" The Boston School Committee recently examined this question from all sides and in all its bearings, and upon a unanimous report of its intelligent sub-committee adopted and introduced the Swedish, or Ling, System into all the public schools of the city. Many other leading cities have taken the same action and the number is growing constantly.

The Boston Normal School of Gymnastics has been organized and is maintained in response to a rapidly growing demand for trained teachers of the Ling System capable of supervising the work of physical training in the schools.

This work was written in response to a request from the masters of the Boston public schools, that the author should prepare a book which could be used as a guide in teaching gymnastics in the schools. As suggested in that request, the exercises have been so arranged as to make it possible to introduce them into the public schools under present conditions. Such exercises have been selected as will require no more floor space nor apparatus than would be at command in an ordinary schoolroom. It is the hope of the author that his Day's Orders may be useful to the students as well as to the teachers in their practical work.

The Progressive Gymnastic Day's Orders are used in the following educational institutions: The public schools of Boston, Somerville, Woburn, Waltham, Andover, Canton, North Easton, Brookline, Quincy, Rockland, and Fitchburg, Mass.; Pawtucket, R.I.; Hartford, Conn.; Dover, N.H.; Augusta, Ga.; Brooklyn, N.Y.; Tacoma, Wash.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Boston Normal School; Oshkosh State Normal School, Wis.; Hemenway School, Norfolk, Va.; Burnham Classical Institute; Smith College, Northampton, Mass.; Abott Academy, Andover; Drexel Institute, Philadelphia; Hampton College, Louisville, Ky.; Science Hill School, Shelbyville, Ky., etc.

Practical Manual of Swedish Pedagogical Gymnastics.

By CLÄES J. ENEBUSKE, A.M., Ph.D., Lecturer and Demonstrator of the Ling System at the Boston Normal School of Gymnastics.

MANUAL TRAINING.

The Teacher's Handbook of Sloyd.

As practised and taught at Nääs (Sweden), containing explanations and details of each exercise. By OTTO SALOMON, Director of the Nääs Seminarium, assisted by CARL NORDENDAHL and ALFRED JOHANSSON. Translated and adapted for English teachers by MARY R. WALKER, St. George's Training College, Edinburgh (Scotland), and WILLIAM NELSON, of the Manchester (England) Schools for the Deaf and Dumb. 224 pages. Fully illustrated. — Mailing price, $1.50.

A VERY general feeling has prevailed among educators for several years, that the provision for manual training in the schools has been neither adequate nor satisfactory. Like many another improvement born of necessity, Sloyd work is now coming to find a place and a welcome in our advancing school system.

The Teacher's Manual of Sloyd is the only complete manual on that subject published in this country. No superintendent or teacher can afford to be without a copy.

"It is the one book that has been needed, not only to help teachers of Sloyd, but to make Sloyd teachers. I dropped all other work and read it through, and find it just the book needed with Sloyd work in its present state. No Sloyd teacher can do without it. No Normal School pupil can do without it. Its authors and publishers are to be congratulated upon its appearance, scope, and character." — H. E. Gordon, Principal of Tillotson Academy, Trinidad, Col.

The Calvary Hymnal.

For Sunday School, Prayer-Meeting, and Church Service.

By ROBERT STUART MACARTHUR, D.D., Pastor of Calvary Church, New York City, and MISS KATE S. CHITTENDEN, Organist and Director of Music, Calvary Church,
New York City. Introductory price, 60 cents; to Churches and Sunday Schools, $50.00 per hundred.

THIS compilation is an attempt to present a completer exposition of the devotional spirit of the present era than is found in preceding works of its class, and also to gather into the psalmody of the Sunday school, the prayer-meeting, and the service of the church, the choicest of the poetical and musical creations of the current decade, as well as those of earlier times.

R. S. MacArthur

That the authors have succeeded is attested by the popularity of the work.

"It is an excellent book." — Rev. O. P. Gifford, Pastor Immanuel Baptist Church, Chicago, Ill.

"The 'Calvary Hymnal' is an elegant embalming of very choice music." — Rev. B. A. Greene, Lynn, Mass.

The People's Worship and Psalter.

A complete Order of Service for the Morning and Evening Worship of Christian Congregations. By Rev. ROBERT S. MACARTHUR, D.D., and Rev. FRANCIS BELLAMY. Regular edition, half morocco, 50 cents; cloth, flexible cover, 30 cents.

THIS is a Manual of Worship prepared with a view of furnishing a better medium than has heretofore existed through which to conduct the worship of the people. The Order for Worship is beautiful and stately yet conservative. It embodies familiar Scripture selections for responsive readings, and the simple yet superb chants of the early church. By its use, all the people come to feel that public worship is theirs and that they have a part in it.

"Its order of worship is sensible, its Scripture selections appropriate, and its chants and responses well chosen."—Congregationalist, Boston, Mass.

"I have carefully examined 'The People's Worship and Psalter,' and can conscientiously and heartily commend it."—Rev. Cephas B. Crane, D.D., Concord, N.H.

"I want to thank you for producing such an admirable manuscript of public devotion. Its aim and its spirit are the best."—Rev. Lemuel C. Barnes, Newton Centre, Mass.

"Nothing could be neater and more satisfactory in make-up than 'The People's Worship and Psalter.'"—Rev. Philip S. Moxom, D.D., Pastor First Baptist Church, Boston, Mass.

"The book is simple, easy to comprehend and to use, scholarly and reverent in its tone. I am delighted with the work."—Rev. A. W. Hazen, D.D., Pastor First Congregational Church, Middletown, Conn.

"The present work appears to be very happily conceived and ably carried out. It provides a much more considerable place for the people in public worship than is generally found in our own Church."—Evangelist, New York.

"The object of the authors, to provide something which will occupy a middle ground between ritualism on the one hand, and the entire absence of a regular order on the other, seems to us to have been well executed."—The Christian Union, New York.

"The publication of such an order, framed on well-understood principles, by men who have devoted much attention to it, will do much to bring this matter before our churches, and to hasten the day in which the worship of the people will receive the consideration in all our churches that it deserves."—Watchman, Boston, Mass.

Christmas Selections.

From the Calvary Hymnal. A 16-page number containing eleven selections. Especially adapted to Christmas Festival Services in Sunday schools and Congregations. Single copy, 5 cents; $4.00 per hundred.

The Nativity.

Additional numbers of this Festival Song Service will be published from time to time.

Our Best Endeavor.

By Messrs. W. A. OGDEN and CHAS. EDW. PRIOR. Introductory price, 35 cents; to churches, Sunday schools, and societies, $30.00 per hundred.

THE compilers of this book are already favorably known to the public by reason of their many valuable contributions to the musical literature of the Sunday school and the church. Our Best Endeavor, their latest work, is especially adapted to the needs of Sunday schools and young people's prayer-meetings. It contains many of the old favorites, and, in addition, there will be found a large number of selections which now appear for the first time. Non-sectarian in character, the book is suitable for use in any Christian church. Young People's Societies will be sure to welcome the work because of its freshness and vigor, and the enthusiasm which its selections will inspire. It is in fullest sympathy with the thought and action of the day, as measured by the well-known and accepted standards of the church.

"I can speak in terms of high praise of 'Our Best Endeavor.'" — G. B. Hodge, University of North Dakota, Grand Forks, N.D.

"'Our Best Endeavor' is an excellent book. I have given it careful thought and attention, and find the music first class and inspiring." — Delilah Millsbaugh, Organist of the People's Baptist Church, Newburgh, N.Y.

"I think 'Our Best Endeavor' the best book out, — the result of hard work, and indeed the very best endeavor of its authors. We are delighted with it, and like it more and more each time we try to sing from it." — J. L. Parks, Ligonier, Ind.

The Students' Hymnal.

Hymns of Praise with Selections from Scripture for Reading and Chanting. Edited by THOMAS J. MORGAN, A.M., D.D., and EDWARD K. GLEZEN, A.M. Elegant cloth and gilt. 144 pages. Red edges. Introductory price, 60 cents. — Mailing price, 67 cents.

THIS volume is the outgrowth of many years of experience both in educational and musical work, and it is hoped that the selection of hymns which it contains, as well as the portions of Scripture for responsive reading and chanting, will be found especially appropriate for the devotional exercises of schools and colleges.

While retaining among the hymns here given those which by reason of long use and association will be naturally looked for in a collection of this kind, the aim has been to secure the choicest and best productions to be found in more recent hymnology. It is believed that the volume will be found in this respect fully representative of the latest and best writers and composers. It has been the aim throughout to maintain a standard of musical and literary excellence which shall render the book educating and helpful to those using it.

"I think it a fine thing." — Edward Conant, Principal of State Normal School, Randolph, Vt.

"I have given not a little attention to the book, and find it first-class in every respect." — Arthur W. Peirce, Barre, Vt.

"The selections seem to me to be excellent. They are popular and inspiring without being trashy." — G. M. Steele, D.D., Principal of Wesleyan Academy, Wilbraham, Mass.

"I have examined the 'Students' Hymnal' at some length, and find it an excellent collection of hymns and tunes." — Prof. J. N. Davis, Lasell Seminary, Auburndale, Mass.

"I have looked over your 'Students' Hymnal' with much pleasure, and do not know how anything could be better adapted for opening exercises in a large proportion of our secondary schools and grammar school departments." — F. B. Palmer, Principal of State Normal School, Fredonia, N.Y.

"I am very much pleased with the new hymnal. The selection of hymns is certainly admirable, not an indifferent one among them. So far as I have been able to examine, the selection of tunes is equally good. There is a sufficient number of familiar tunes to make introduction easy. There is no book in use in any of the schools of Brooklyn that can compare with it." — Professor F. W. Osborn, Adelphi Academy, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Praise Hymnal.

Hymns of Praise, with Selections from Scripture for Reading and Chanting. Edited by THOMAS J. MORGAN, A.M., D.D., and EDWARD K. GLEZEN, A.M. Elegant cloth and gilt. 144 pages. Red edges. Introductory price, 60 cents. — Mailing price, 67 cents.

SAME contents as The Students' Hymnal, modified to adapt the book to use in Sunday schools, prayer meetings, and the various forms of social worship.

The School Hymnary.

A Collection of Hymns and Tunes and Patriotic Songs for Use in Public and Private Schools. Compiled and Arranged by JOSEPH A. GRAVES, PH.D., Principal of South School, Hartford, Conn. Introductory price, 48 cents. — Mailing price, 54 cents.

A THREEFOLD purpose has governed the compiler in making this collection: (1) To select the best hymns in the language for the ordinary exercises of worship in public and private schools; (2) To set these hymns to tunes of a worthy and permanent character, which should yet be within the musical ability of young children; (3) To so arrange the tunes that they may be sung with increasing pleasure and profit as advancement is made.

The hymns are entirely unsectarian, and are believed to be adapted both in word and thought to the purpose of worship in song.

A few tunes have been arranged for three voices, but the greater number for four parts. No tenor part has been written, as that voice is practically unknown among school children; but, in its stead, an alto part has been arranged, occupying very nearly the position of the tenor in four-part music.

The patriotic songs include the most popular and widely known national anthems, together with some pieces that are less familiar.

Songs for All Seasons.

A Scriptural and Poetical Calendar for Holidays, Birthdays, and all Days. By REV. S. DRYDEN PHELPS, D.D. 420 pages. 12mo, cloth. Price, $1.25.

THIS volume is a collection of the author's hymns and short poems, arranged as a poetical calendar for daily reading and reference. It gives a song for every day in the year, each preceded by two appropriate selections from Scripture, one from the Old Testament and one from the New.

For many years past the author's hymns have had a secure place in collections prepared for church use, and some of them have attained a wide popularity, notably "Something for Thee," which has been sung by Christian people in all lands. The choicest of these various hymns and songs have now been brought together, several new ones added, and the whole arranged in a beautiful volume, which will form a very appropriate gift book for old or young. Any one with a song in his heart will find many a counterpart here.

"The pieces are marked by ease of versification, natural feeling, and a constant vein of religious thought and sentiment. To the many admirers of the author's verse this volume will be welcome." — The Watchman, Boston, Mass.

Studies in Ethics and Religion, or, Essays on Themes pertaining to Theism, Inspiration, Christian Life, and Education for the Ministry.

By REV. ALVAH HOVEY, D.D., LL.D., Newton Theological Institution. Retail price, $2.00.

Alvah Hovey

THE subjects treated in this volume are believed to be of present interest to Christian people, and worthy of every man's attention. All of them pertain to religion and life, and are classed under four heads : Theism, Inspiration, Christian Conduct, and Education for the Ministry. The first division treats of our knowledge of God and his relation to universal nature, and the agnostic, pantheistic, and idealistic theories of the present time ; the second, of the character and inspiration of the Holy Scriptures, especially the Prophets and Apostles, having in view questions now disturbing the minds of many even sincere Christian people ; the third, of Christian conduct, considering the State and Religion, the Lord's Day and the Higher Life ; the fourth, of special need of education for the work of the Ministry.

Readers and thinkers will find this volume fresh and vigorous. They will appreciate the candor with which the author has approached every question, and the clear, comprehensive grasp, the broad and generous spirit, which characterizes the discussion throughout.

The Revisers' Greek Text.

A Critical Examination of Certain Readings, Textual and Marginal, in the Original Greek of the New Testament adopted by the late Anglo-American Revisers. 2 Vols. By REV. S. W. WHITNEY, A.M. Price per vol., $2.50.

THE above-named work is a carefully prepared commentary on the Greek text from which the Revisers made their translation. In the preface the author reminds his readers that a correct English version cannot be expected if the Greek text is incorrect. The aim of the work is "to give as clear a conception as is possible of the true nature of the changes that have been introduced" by the Revisers. Numerous passages are cited in which the accepted text and the Revisers' text do not agree, and the authorities for each rendering are set forth, thus giving the student opportunity to judge of the comparative value of both readings. The work is one of great interest to ministers and all Bible students. All Greek expressions are translated, so that the book can be read understandingly by those who have no knowledge of that language.

"I congratulate you on the production of so scholarly and valuable a work. I have examined it with great interest and pleasure. You have brought all students of the Bible under obligations to you."—Julius H. Seelye, Ex-President, Amherst College, Amherst, Mass.

"The volumes as they stand show careful work, and are, in the main, scholarly and valuable. They constitute a notable addition to American textual criticism. In not a few cases, valuable grammatical discussions are included; and since the author writes in a very intelligible style, his work will be found valuable to students of the New Testament other than textual critics."—The Evangelist, New York, N.Y.

"I have been perusing Mr. Whitney's volumes on the 'Revisers' Greek Text,' and am greatly pleased with the results of this examination. I have long been convinced that justice has not been rendered to the textus receptus by the majority of recent critics, and am glad to see so scholarly and minute a vindication of it. The principles adopted by Mr. Whitney and his method of procedure are sound, and I am convinced that they will have weight with all candid investigators."—Rev. James Strong, Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N.J.

"This humble pastor at Ashfield will soon, undoubtedly, have turned upon him a hundred batteries belching forth the hottest fire of retort. But he seems well entrenched. He certainly has piled up around him a mass of material dug out by patient research, which has the appearances of a citadel not easily stormed. . . . While the work is extremely critical, its author has succeeded well in investing it almost entire with a semi-romantic charm and imparting to it a popular flavor such as to command for it, we believe, a wide interest and value."—The Standard, Chicago, Ill.

The Pastor's Handbook.

A Ritual of Scriptural and Poetical Selections and Studies for Weddings, Funerals, and other Official Duties. By REV. W. W. EVERTS, D.D., formerly Pastor of the First Baptist Church, Chicago. Retail price, cloth, 75 cents; flexible leather, $1.00.

THE present volume is an improvement on former editions, and is already in the hands of thousands of ministers of all denominations who use it with ever-increasing satisfaction.

"Dr. Everts's 'Pastor's Handbook' is the best thing of the kind I have ever seen."—F. A. Noble, D.D., Pastor of Union Park Congregational Church, Chicago.

"Excellent in design, admirable in execution, compact, comprehensive, complete, leaving absolutely nothing to be desired in the matter of a pastor's handbook."—P. S. Henson, D.D., Pastor of First Baptist Church, Chicago.

The Holy Ordinance of Marriage.

Arranged by Rev. GEORGE E. MERRILL. 47 pages. $5\frac{1}{2} \times 7\frac{1}{2}$ inches. Retail price, white vellum paper, 60 cents; flexible leather, \$1.00.

THE marriage ceremony set out in this volume, although suggested by the Episcopal ritual, is different from it in several respects, in general being somewhat more elastic. It is stately and markedly impressive. Substantially as it now appears this ceremony has been used for several years by the author, who now publishes it in response to numerous requests.

This little book is an unusually choice volume, artistically printed in colors on the best paper, the design being to make of the book a fitting souvenir. It contains a blank certificate of marriage, and an appropriate blank for the signatures of witnesses. When these are filled, the book becomes an elegant certificate for the married pair.

In addition to the ceremony, it contains extracts from the Scripture pertaining to marriage, and four exquisite hymns which add materially to the intrinsic value of the work.

"It is the best thing I have ever seen in that line." — Rev. Z. Grennell, Pastor of First Baptist Church, Detroit, Mich.

"So suggestively beautiful is Rev. G. E. Merrill's tiny book, 'The Holy Ordinance of Marriage,' that the soft rustle of bridal robes and the sweet scent of orange blossoms seem to rise from its delicate pages." — The Watchman, Boston, Mass.

"The beautiful little volume entitled 'The Holy Ordinance of Marriage,' arranged by Rev. G. E. Merrill, pleases me very much. It would be difficult to suggest any radical improvement in the matter or make-up." — Rev. Henry C. Graves, D.D., New Bedford, Mass.

"The beautiful little book entitled 'Holy Ordinance of Marriage' has come to hand. I esteem it highly. It is very valuable because of the Scriptures concerning marriage which it contains, as well as because of the marriage service which it furnishes." — Rev. R. S. MacArthur, D.D., Pastor of Calvary Church, New York City.

"I want to congratulate you most heartily on the beautiful marriage certificate that you have just issued. I have been waiting for such a work for years,—something tasteful, refined, beautiful, at moderate price. I have immediately ordered a number of copies, and shall hope to use it regularly in the future. It is admirable in all respects, and you deserve the thanks of every minister." — Rev. W. H. P. Faunce, New York, N.Y.

Robertson's Living Thoughts.

A Thesaurus. By KERR BOYCE TUPPER, D.D., Pastor of the First Baptist Church, Denver, Colorado. With an Introduction by Prof. WILLIAM C. RICHARDS, PH.D. 256 pp., cloth. Retail price, $1.00.

WHILE this volume does not contain all the rich gems to be found in the writings of this popular author, it is a valuable collection of many of the most attractive and suggestive thoughts to which utterance and life were given by the brilliant young preacher, Frederick W. Robertson.

The work is supplemented by a full alphabetical index, rendering it easy of reference, and enhancing its value both for the general reader who may wish to reinforce a given topic, and to the pastor who may desire a pertinent illustration.

The Social Influence of Christianity.

With special reference to Contemporary Problems. By DAVID J. HILL, LL.D., President of Rochester University. The Newton Lectures for 1887. 231 pp., full cloth, gilt. Retail price, $1.25.

THIS volume presents a clear and vigorous discussion of the great social, political, and economic questions of the day in the light of Christianity. Starting with the questions, What is Human Society? and What has Christianity done for Human Society?—then follow in order the consideration of Christianity and the Problems of Labor, of Wealth, of Marriage, of Education, of Legislation, and of Repression. No other American book approaches so near being a complete outline of Sociology from a prevailing ethical point of view. Its timeliness and value will be appreciated by all persons who are studying the various social problems of the day, or who are in any way interested in their discussion and solution.

"Ten years of experience as a teacher of economics and sociology have enabled the author to grasp the issues of his subject in a scientific manner, and his extended travel in Europe has enriched his knowledge of the contemporary condition of society with the fruits of observation."

Introduction to the Books of the Old Testament.

With analyses and numerous references to illustrative literature. By O. S. STEARNS, D.D., Professor of Biblical Interpretation in Newton Theological Institution. A book for every reader and student of the Bible. 12mo. Retail price, $1.00.

EVERY careful reader of the Old Testament must answer for each book each of these questions before it can be intelligently understood. Who wrote it? In what age of the world was it written? Why was it written just at that time? What is the central thought in the book, and how is it unfolded? This book attempts to answer these questions candidly and briefly.

"It is a very valuable compendium for students, and is so natural and so direct in its analysis as to be of value to superintendents and teachers in the Sunday-school."— The Standard, Chicago, Ill.

Through Death to Life.

Ten Sermons on the Great Resurrection Chapter of St. Paul. By REUVEN THOMAS, D.D., Ph.D., Pastor of Harvard Church, Brookline, Mass. 12mo, cloth, gilt. Retail price, $1.25.

THIS volume is a notable and valuable contribution to the literature of a theme which touches more closely than any other the mystery and destiny of human life. The discussion is masterful in every way.

"While the truths discussed in these sermons are deep, profound, and highly spiritual, they are clear, suggestive, and interesting. Every page can be comprehended by young persons of intelligence. These subjects have not often received so satisfactory a treatment. This volume deserves a place in that choice half shelf where we keep the sermons that seem to have been preached to ourselves."— Golden Rule.

The Galilean :

Or Jesus the World's Saviour.

Twenty-seven Sermons on the Life of our Lord. By REV. GEORGE C. LORIMER, D.D., LL.D. 448 pp., with portrait, cloth. Retail price, $1 50.

THIS volume was originally published several years ago. Of late, it has been out of print, and as demands for it have increased, it is once more given to the public. In reparing and rearranging the work for the press, the author, by revisions and additions, has aimed to enlarge its scope, and to render it a more complete exposition of the great Galilean's life. The sermon chapters on the "Religion of Jesus," on His "Philanthropy," on His "Truth-Spirit," and on His "Agony" and "Ascension," are entirely new, and the one on the "Future of Jesus" has been rewritten. By these changes the book has been brought into touch with the spirit of the times, and with some of the larger questions now agitating them; and they have likewise gone far toward making it a sufficient guide to the broader and more generous orthodoxy of our evangelical churches—an orthodoxy that seeks to avoid the narrow literalism of the old theology and the diffusive idealism of the new. The author has not attempted to discuss the views of Strauss and Renan on the great theme he has here treated, neither has he essayed a formal biography of our Saviour after the manner of Neander, Geike, or Farrar. His humbler aim has been, while seeking to preserve the unity of history, to present a series of pictures of the Galilean, and to unfold such distinct aspects of His earthly ministry as best may meet the religious needs of this generation. . . . It has seemed good to the author of this volume,

"having had some understanding of all things from the very first, to write unto thee, in order, most excellent Theophilus" — or, what in this instance is the same, most excellent reader — that the moral and spiritual lessons of Christ's Life might be more clearly discerned, and be more highly appreciated. — [Extract from the Introduction.]

Isms Old and New.

By REV. GEORGE C. LORIMER, D.D., LL.D. 12mo, cloth. Retail price, $1.00.

A SERIES of sermons dealing with the prevailing religious errors of the day, and showing how all systems of religion founded upon them fail to meet the necessities of our spiritual life.

A new edition of this valuable work is now in press.

Messages to the Men of To-morrow.

Eighteen Sermons to Young Men. Delivered at Tremont Temple, Boston. By REV. GEORGE C. LORIMER, D.D., LL.D. (Will be ready at an early date.)

THESE are strong, interesting, and timely sermons, teeming with earnest thought, and treating of the elements of character, influence, usefulness, and happiness. All earnest young men will treasure the volume.

A Sketch of the Lives and Missionary Work of Rev. Cephas Bennett and his wife, Stella Kneeland Bennett.

By RUTH WHITAKER RANNEY. With portraits. Cloth. Retail price, $1.00.

THIS charming volume, written by a granddaughter of the devout couple, gives many important incidents which occurred during the missionary work of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett in Burma, extending over fifty years of time. Two grand and noble lives are here portrayed. "When this book is begun, few will be able to lay it aside till it is finished."

The Old Northwest:

With a View of the Thirteen Colonies as constituted by the Royal Charters.

By B. A. HINSDALE, PH.D., Professor of the Science and Art of Teaching, University of Michigan. 1 vol. 8vo, cloth. Retail price, $2.50.

THE Old Northwest is the region bounded by the Great Lakes and the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. It is the original public domain, and the part of the West first colonized under the authority of the National Government. It was the first and most important territory ever organized by Congress. It is the only part of the United States ever under a secondary constitution like the ordinance of 1787. No other equal part of the Union has made in one hundred years such progress along the characteristic lines of American development. To portray those features that make it an historical unit, is the central purpose of the work.

Historical Atlas and General History.

By ROBERT H. LABBERTON. Library edition, half morocco, full gilt. Retail price, $3.50.

THIS is an elegant and useful volume for libraries and for students. Its references are confined almost entirely to English works, making it possible for any reader to follow the outline and fill in the details which can come only from wide collateral reading. The book is a history of the World, not a bundle of particular histories. The large number of clear and accurate maps and the abundant genealogical charts give to the volume an especial value for the general reader.

Reference Book of Business Knowledge and Self-Educator.

By IRA MAYHEW, LL.D. 8vo. Retail price, $3.50.

THIS book of "Business Knowledge" is designed to render valuable service to earnest workers seeking preparation for the varied duties of an active business life, and requiring only such aids as will enable them to help themselves. Such persons, we trust, will welcome this book and find its teachings what they require.

An Elementary Handbook on Potable Water.

By FLOYD DAVIS, M.SC., PH.D., Professor of General and Applied Chemistry in DRAKE UNIVERSITY; Chemist of Iowa Board of Health, etc. 118 pages, cloth. Retail price, $1.00.

A BOOK that every intelligent reader will prize. How to secure pure drinking water is a vital question. The author's large experience in examining water supplies and his thorough familiarity with the writings, investigations, and conclusions of other chemists, give to his statements the weight of authority. His chapter on Bacteriology will interest even the unlearned.

Home Cook Book.

Contains over 1000 practical and economical receipts, all tried and approved. Forty-eighth Thousand. 12mo, 400 pages, oil and cloth. Retail price, $1.50.

THE recipes in this book have all been contributed by ladies of influence and good judgment, in Chicago and other cities and towns. It contains articles on Housekeeping, Table Talk, Dinner Etiquette, Social Observances, Little Housekeepers, Marketing, Servants, Kitchen, etc.

Wit and Humor.

A Choice Collection of Anecdotes, Dialect, Wit, and Humor, Conundrums, etc. P
MARSHALL BROWN. Cloth. Retail price, $1.00.

LAUGHTER is healthful to the body as gladness is to the mind. The reader will find it in every page of "Wit and Humor."

The Foreigner in China.

By REV. L. N. WHEELER, D.D. Cloth. Retail price, $1.25.

THE adjustment of the relations of the Chinese foreigners in the United States is just now a burning question. For the settlement of the question, an investigation of the merits of this Oriental civilization and its relation to our own is necessary. The writer of this work has made a thorough study not only of the Chinese people, but also of their history and the outside forces which have helped to make them what they are. He gives here the mature fruit of that study.

Tangled.

A NOVEL. By "RACHEL CAREW." 16mo, cloth. Retail price, 75 cents.

A CLEVER little story based upon a case of mistaken identity and the laughable complications and amusing incidents naturally resulting therefrom. It is a good book to lighten the tedium of an invalid's long day.

Lyrics of Home Land.

By EUGENE J. HALL. 8vo, beautifully illustrated, gilt. Retail price, $2.00.

A COLLECTION of rustic ballads and shorter poems, each laden with its own perfume, and bearing its own charm. Every page has something to please a fancy or adorn a tale.

The Mishaps of Mr. Ezekiel Pelter.

Illustrated. Retail price, $1.50.

IF it be your desire to "laugh and grow fat," you will find the "Mishaps of Ezekiel Pelter" a great help. The situations depicted are comical in the extreme.

SUGGESTIONS.—In ordering, parties will confer a favor upon us by complying with the following suggestions:—

1. Always be careful to give full and exact titles.
2. State whether books ordered are for Introduction or for Regular Trade.
3. If for Introduction, make a careful estimate of the number of books required, and be careful not to send an excessive order; a second order is always more satisfactory to all concerned than a return of books resulting from an excessive order.
4. In ordering for Introduction, be particular to state the school or schools in which the books are to be introduced, what book, if any, is to be displaced, whether it is expected that exchanges will be made, and the probable number of such exchanges.
5. If you are not personally known to us, and wish us to open an account with you, always mention the name of some reliable party to whom we may refer, if we desire information respecting your responsibility and standing.

TERMS.—Note carefully the following:—

1. Orders for single copies of any book should always be accompanied by cash; do not ask us to open an account for the price of a single book.
2. All accounts for merchandise ordered for Regular Trade should be paid on or before the 15th of the month following the one in which they were contracted; if not so paid, we reserve the right to draw at sight, without special notice, through our Bank, on the 15th of the month, for the amount of such accounts.
3. All Introductory Accounts must be settled monthly. If the time allowed for introduction has not expired, parties with whom we have open accounts for Introductory Supplies should send us on the first of the month a statement of the books on hand unsold, with remittance to cover all books sold.

REMITTANCES should be sent to us by Bank Draft, P.O. Money Order, Express Order, Postal Note or Registered Letter.
